The fugitive Slave Law.

The New York Courier and Enquirer, speaking of the execution of the fugitive slave law in the free states, says:

"What the south should ask is that when its fugitive slaves are not returned it should receive an indemnity for them. In its present temper South Carolina would undoubtedly desire the literal fulfillment of the law, because it knows that the law is odious to the north. That the Palmetto state is not the representative of southern feeling is well known. Her ultra tendencies are too often manifested. The proposition for receiving indemnity for fugitive slaves was made by southern men some years since, and received the sanction of those who were considered the firmest friends of the south. Mr. Foot, of Miss., gave it his support; why then should not a similar proposition be equally acceptable to the south at the present time? Why should the south desire to insist upon the enforcement of a law which it knows was intended as a harsh one?"

The Courier endorses the proposition of the Albany Evening Journal that those counties in which fugitive slaves are rescued by violence from officials who have them in charge, shall be liable for the value of the slave thus rescued.

We very much question whether the people of the north will be willing to pay for runaway slaves, under any circumstances. We believe they will not be willing to acknowledge, voluntarily, in this way, that there is property in man. Slaves would have to be paid for, under this proposition, by a tax upon all the property of a county, which would add to our already interminable difficulties in relation to the legality of taxes. The principle of making the people of a whole district or county pay for the acts of one or two, or at most a very few men, is unequal and unjust, and more especially so when at the same time the rightfulness of chattelism in a human being is to be acknowledged.

To add such an obligation as this to the odious requirements of the present fugitive slave law could not be borne by men who have any regard for conscience, or the moral law, and we look upon any compromise which shall impose the necessity of paying the slave holder for his runaway slaves, as utterly inadmissable.

At the same time, we know of very few, if indeed there are any, among us, who deny the constitutional obligation to deliver up the fugitive from service to his master, upon claim and proof being made on the spot that he is such a fugitive as was contemplated by the constitution. But we do deny that any citizen shall be compelled to assist in the capture of a slave; or to hold him after he has been arrested; or to be made liable to fines and imprisonment for mere acts of charity and hospitality without intent to assist the runaway to escape. If we are to have a new arrangement in relation to fugitive slaves, we shall continue to insist that there shall be some mode of determining the validity of the claim to the slave, at the time and on the spot where the claim is made. Kidnapping under the pretext of ownership, has become so common that there is no safety in permitting the fugitive to be taken away by any and every person who makes a "claim," and is willing to swear to it. Fraudulent papers of this kind have multiplied to such a degree, and are so easily obtained, that some legal and sure means should be instituted to determine their validity in the state where the fugitive is arrested. There are wretches who make kidnapping a business, and so great is this evil, and so dangerous is it to an unfortunate class in our midst, that we cannot turn a deaf ear to their appeals for protection.

In a word, we do not object to fulfilling the demands of the constitution on this subject, if a proper law shall be enacted, guarding and protecting the rights of all who may come under its operation—neither stopping short nor going beyond the requirements of that instrument. To ask us to do more than this will be entirely useless.

THE WAR IN KANSAS.—Read the dispatches this morning! What news! Let military expedition return in all haste, taking good care, however, not to arrive here earlier than midnight. It was an outrage on the gallant soldiery of St. Louis to take them out on such a bogus business.—Missouri Democrat.

It does look a little like the "Virginia scare," both in its beginning and in its ending. The [illegible]esson taught is, never believe "border r[illegible]n" rumors, and don't order out the [illegible] until it is certain there is an enemy in the field. By following this rule much expense will be saved, and some chagrin.

CONGRESS.—Congress meets on Monday next. The message will probably be delivered Tuesday, and will most likely be [illegible] by Wednesday, or Thursday. We see it intimated that as Mr. Buchanan "knows no west" he will not send his message in advance of its delivery to this region.

☞ Georgia will probably have no vote in the electoral college. Breckinridge has carried the state by a plurality of about 2,500, while her constitution requires a majority of all the votes to secure a choice. In the event of failure to elect before the people, electors are to be chosen by the legislature. That body, however, has adjourned without action and will not be reconvened to act in the matter.

WRECK OF THE DACOTAH.—From the Buffalo Commercial we gather the following particulars of the wreck of the propellor Dacotah:

This ill-fated vessel is supposed to have struck on Saturday night at 9 o'clock. She was first discovered on Monday morning, by Mr. Bennett, opposite his house, one mile above Sturgeon Bay. At 9 o'clock the night before, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and their son heard amidst the howling of the tempest, the voice of some one hallooing apparently in distress. They went out and searched in vain for some one, for an hour. The next morning Mrs. Bennett was so convinced that she heard some one hallooing in distress from the beach, that she sent her son to look, and he found the wreck.—The vessel apparently broke up outside, by striking a reef, as one half of the entire bottom was landed high and dry on the beach—all perfect. The debris of the wreck and cargo are strewn for miles along the beach. The bones of three men have been found, and are in charge of the coroner, A. Dewey, of Evans Centre. Two of them have been identified as Bartholomew Macnamra, deck hand, and Edward Kennedy, watchman.—The other man could not be identified. The life-boat is on the beach, nearly perfect, and it may be that some one reached the shore alive in her, and perished before reaching the dwelling. An examination is taking place to discover if this is so. There is two feet of snow on the level at Evans' Centre. Some portions of the wreck are hanging off in the lake, apparently hung by the machinery and anchors. Captain Thomas, of the board of underwriters, and captains Collins and Gaylord, were left in charge of the wreck and cargo by Capt. Dorr, and did all they could, in co-operation with the coroner, to recover the bodies and forward them to their friends. It was a sad sight to see those bodies saved—froze stark and stiff, with the red color of life still in their cheeks! Poor sailors! their last work is done. God help the poor, bereaved ones left behind.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says of the several reputed West Point cadets, who have announced their determination to fight for S. C., in the event of her seceding from the Union, that one of them was dismissed last June, in consequence of his deficiency in French and the large number of demerit marks placed opposite his name; a second and a third were dismissed at the same time, the first for bad conduct, the second for want of scholarship; the fourth still remains in the institution, but stands fifty-third in a class of fifty-seven, and is already charged with one hundred and thirty-eight demerits. The names of the four others who signed the manifesto are not on the catalogue at all.

BARNUM A PRACTICAL JOKER.—During a republican glorification at Bridgeport, Conn., P. T. Barnum played a rich joke on his son-in-law, D. W. Thompson, a prominent democrat. Barnum invited Thompson and his family to his house, and while they were awaiting the arrival of the procession, Barnum and his assistants ran and illuminated Thomson's house. The republicans of course were astonished to see the illumination, and made many complimentary remarks in favor of Mr. Thompson's course. The latter, when he learned the trick, was disposed to raise a storm, but soon joined in the genuine laugh over the clever trick.

THE SOUTHERN ULTIMATUM.—The Richmond Enquirer lays down the terms upon which the south will consent to remain in the Union, as folllows:

The northern states which have declared war against us—they alone are competent to shield us from revolution. Let each northern state, through her legislature, or in convention assembled, promptly repeal all nullifying laws passed for the injury of the constitutional rights of the south; pass laws to secure the easy and prompt execution of the fugitive slave law; pass other laws imposing adequate penalties on all malefactors who shall hereafter assist or enourage the escape of fugitive slaves; pass other laws declaring and protecting the right of slaveholders to travel and sojourn in northern states, accompanied by their slaves, instruct their senators and representatives, in congress to repeal the law prohibiting the sale of slaves in the district of Columbia, and to pass laws sufficient for the protection of slave property in all the territories of the Union; and let these senators and representatives promptly obey such instructions.

This will only secure the constitutional rights of the southern states from aggression, actual or menaced. This will do more than merely fulfil the constitutional obligations of the northern states. This, and nothing short of this, will suffice to prevent revolution.

THE IDEA OF THE SPINNING JENNY.—Suddenly he (James Hargreaves,) dropped upon his knees, and rolled on the stone floor at full length. He lay with his face toward the floor, and made lines and circles with the end of a burned stick. He rose and went to the fire to burn his stick. He took hold of his bristly hair with one hand, and rubbed his forehead and nose with the other and the blackened stick. Then he sat upon a chair, and placed his head between his hands, his elbows on his knees, and gazed intently on the floor. Then he sprang to his feet, and replied to some feeble questions of his wife, (who had not risen since the day she gave birth to a little stranger,) by a loud assurance that he had it; and, taking her in his sturdy arms, in the blankets, the baby in her arms, he lifted her out, and held her over the black drawing on the floor. These he explained, and she joined a small, hopeful, happy laugh with his high toned assurance that she should never toil at the spinningwheel; that he would never again "play," and have his loom standing for want of weft. She asked some questions, which he answered, after seating her in the arm chair, by laying her spinning-wheel on its back, the horizontal spindle standing vertically, while he made the wheel revolve, and drew a roving of cotton from the spindle into an attenuated thread. "Our fortune is made when that is made," he said, speaking of his drawings on the floor. "What will you call it?" asked his wife. "Call it? What an we call it after thyself, Jenny! They called thee 'spinning Jenny' afore I had thee, because thou beat every lass in Stonehill. Moor at the wheel. What if we call it 'Spinning Jenny?'"—Men Who Have Risen.

THE CHIVALRY DOWN ON BUNKER HILL.—The N. Y. Times says: Having had the pleasure of meeting in Boston with Mr. Farnham, and having learned his political proclivities, we penned a few days since the following item: "Ralph Farnham, the sole survivor of the battle of Bunker Hill, and the recipient of much kindness from our late royal guest, has voted at every Presidential election, and has made up his mind to vote for Lincoln on Tuesday next."

Whereupon the Charleston Mercury waxeth wroth, and patriotically expresseth itself thus: "Ralph Farnham is perhaps as great a humbug as was the battle of Bunker Hill."

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning as one of the pressmen was engaged in adjusting the inking apparatus of our small power press, the ends of his neck tie were caught in the cog-wheels and he was brought up "choking" in about two seconds. Fortunately the tie gave way just in time to save him from being choked to death.—Madison Argus.

Mississippi returns a population of 483,715, being an increase of 187,189 in ten years.

LOSS OF CAPT. W. S. CROSS.—Among those lost by the recent gale on the lakes was Capt. W. S. Cross of Milwaukee. He commanded the propeller Dacotah, and was lost on Lake Erie with all on board. Capt. Cross was about 42 years of age, and one of the oldest settlers in the state. He was a member of the legislature of 1858, and was well known throughout the state.

The South Carolina ministers preach secession from the pulpit. The southern democracy are not as much opposed to political preaching as formerly.

Colored suffrage was defeated in New York at the late election by over 100,000 majority.

A dead body in an advanced state of decay was found in a mineral hole at Mineral Point a few days since, supposed to be that of John Fredett, an attachee of Antonio Brothers' Circus, who visited that city in the latter part of July last.

John Haffer, Seaman Haffer, and Thomas Jarvies, charged with the murder of William Haley, at Oak Creek, on election day, after an examination before Judge Mallory, have been remanded to prison to await the action of the grand jury.

Marshal Lewis has been discharged from the action brought against him by J. T. Salsman (brother-in-law of Booth) for assault and battery.

A lap dog of the King Charles species was sold at auction in London, not long ago, for $2,600. We will bet the purchaser of that "sore eyes" would not give a cent in charity to a poor man.

The water gas company of Philadelphia offer to supply the Philadelphia city works with gas at seventy-five cents per thousand feet.

The citizens of Charleston are said to be suffering for want of coal—the usual coal boats not daring to venture into that port while the present excitement continues.

During the month of October 39,101 bushels of wheat were shipped from Brodhead.

Among the recent patents is one to Hiram Moore, Brandon, Wis., for improvement in seed drills.

The Waukesha Journal says that one C. Jones, of the town of Waukesha, had his arm caught in a threshing machine last Thursday and torn off above the the wrist, letting the hand drop by the side of the machine.

M. Jules Janin, in a late theatrical article, begins with the words, "By Garibaldi! I will relate to you," etc. This a new oath, which the classical writer substituted for the old one of "By Hercules!"

A New York fashion writer says of dress goods: Flash has had its day. The rainbow plaids, with squares as big as small windows, are consigned to oblivion, and ladies are no longer to be seen walking the streets inclosed in chequer work. The railroad stripes are also numbered with the things that were.

The Monroe papers announce the arrival in that town of "Cataract engine and hose cart No. 1," said to be a beautiful machine. At a late meeting of the company, Norman Churchill was elected foreman.—The company is in a good state of preservation and ready for action.

A WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH WHILE AT PRAYER.—The Lafayette (Ind.) Courier says:

Mrs. Catherine Gray, a widow lady, eighty years of age, residing in the south part of town, was burned to death last week under circumstances of a peculiarly distressing character. On Thursday evening she invited a little boy in the neighborhood to keep her company for the night, and after tucking him warmly under the covers, kneeled down at the bedside to say her prayers. While in this position her dress took fire from the candle, and in an instant she was enveloped in flames. The fire communicated to the curtains of the bed, and intent upon the preservation of the child and forgetful of herself, she fought the flames until her hands were burned to a blister, and succeeded in dragging the little fellow into the middle of the room. The affrighted boy broke from her embrace and ran to the nearest neighbors. The alarm was promptly given, but before aid could be procured the poor woman had been burned past recovery.

The neighbors found her standing in the middle of the floor, with the lower part of her apparel burned entirely off, and her limbs and abdomen horribly disfigured.—The unfortunate woman lingered in great agony until Saturday, when she expired.

THANKSGIVING IN NEW YORK—MAYOR WOOD THINKS THERE IS NOTHING TO BE GRATEFUL FOR.—The proclamation of Mayor Wood announcing that the 29th of November is to be observed in the city as a day of thanksgiving, is the most disgraceful mixture of blasphemy, political spleen and personal impudence, with which it has been our fortune to meet for a long time. Its malignity would be frightful were it not simply ludicrous. After designating the day to be observed, he says:

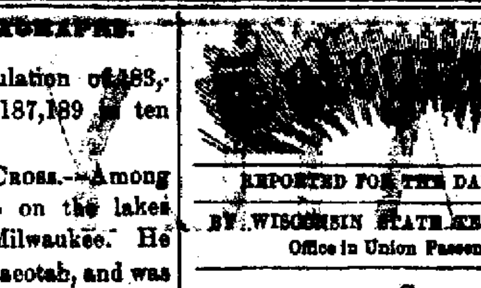

While in my judgment the country, either in its political, commercial or financial aspects, presents no features for which we should be thankful, we are yet called upon by every consideration of self-preservation to offer up to the Father of all Mercies devout and fervent prayer, for His interposition and protection from the impending evils which threaten our institutions and the national interests of the people.

Therefore, acknowledging our dependence upon Almighty God, and deeply sensible of our own unworthiness, let the day set apart as Thanksgiving be observed by the people of this city as one of humiliation and supplication—not omitting in our prayers the expression of the hope that those who have, in violation of the federal compact, unpatriotically and unwisely inflicted these injuries upon us, may be the only sufferers by their own wickedness and folly.

A SAMPLE OF "CHIVALRY."—The Honorable (?) R. B. Rheit, of South Carolina, in a speech at Charleston, the other day, made use of the following polite and truthful language:

"They (the republicans) have elected a southern renegade—spewed out of the bosom of Kentucky into Illinois—and a northern white-washed octoroon mulatto, to be president and vice-president of the United States."

Now, does Mr. Rhett, or any of his coadjutors, really suppose that the people of the north can be influenced by such crazy and disgraceful talk? Or is it merely his purpose by retailing their miserable slang, to influence and exasperate the south beyond all reason.

☞ COUGHS.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL, and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. PUBLIC SPEAKERS and SINGERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement. nov27dawtm

Insurance against loss or damage by fire, on Dwellings, Furniture, Stores, Warehouses, Merchandise, Mills, Manufactories, and most other kinds of property, can be effected in this company upon as favorable terms as the nature of the risks and security of policy-holders will admit.

The above is the oldest company doing business in this state, and with peculiar propriety has been denominated "The Old Hartford." As an indemnity to the insured, it refers to a solid million of assets well invested; and if anything were needed to commend it to the public for liberal patronage, we might offer its history of success in business and honorable dealing with its patrons, for over half a century, as amply sufficient for the purpose.

THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policies issued without delay, and farms risks for a series of years taken at less rates than can be done by Mutual Companies, and a certainty given instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

New York Life Insurance Company,

DAILY GAZETTE.

An American Petruchio's Failure.

Mrs. Morton was a widow—a young, pretty rich widow—when Dr. Charles Strahan made her acquaintance. She was a poor but very handsome woman when Squire Morton married her, and at his death, two years after, she being the sole heir, put on her widow's weeds and pocketed the deceased husband's gold at the same time.

Madam Rumor said that poor old Morton never enjoyed a single hour after he married her; but how should Madam Rumor know? Of one thing, however, I can give my readers reliable information. Mrs. Morton had not been a widow twelve months ere she received, with seeming pleasure, very decided attentions from Dr. Strahan.

Do you inquire who Dr. Strahan was?—Well, he studied medicine, and had the title of M. D. conferred upon him, which he took great pleasure in attaching to his name with a grand flourish. But it is asserted that he never had half a dozen patients in as many years. He was a young man of prepossessing appearance, a ready talker an any subject, and was, in fact, first-rate company.—He played on the flute, and sang—was a good dancer, and an excellent partner at whist; besides, he had some literary reputation. He wrote poetry and two-column sketches for the "Weekly Leveler;" and last, but by no means least, he dressed in good taste and in the height of fashion.—But how he did it no one knew; but then it was no one's business.

But I must be allowed to contradict one rumor which gained considerable prevalency, to the effect that he supported himself by his literary labors; for no ordinary newspaper scribbler could hardly afford Strahan's wardrobe.

Old Squire Morton had been dead but little over a year, when Dr. Strahan, in spite of all that gossippers could say, married the widow and her fortune. The fact was, he wanted a rich wife. As to her, she was anxious to leave her weeds, and go into society again; and she could devise no readier way to accomplish this purpose than by marrying. When any one spoke to the doctor of her being a shrew, he merely remarked that he should take great pleasure in taming a shrew.

For three months they lived happily together, for it was in the height of the season, and between Cape May, Newport, Saratoga, and the White Mountains, they were alone with each other scarce three hours out of the twenty-four; consequently it was impossible for them to disagree. But the season was soon over, and they returned to their quiet home—the place of all others to study a wife or husband—for there is no unnatural excitement, no fashionable Mrs. A to out-dress, no profligate Mr. B to out-do in squandering money, no one to see or please but the "better half."

After a season of long continued gayety there necessarily follows one of extreme dullness; and when one is dull, one is easily displeased. Now Mr. and Mrs. Strahan were both of them remarkably dull, and, as a matter of course, both preferred being pleased to attempting to please—and of course, both were greatly displeased.

It was their third day at home, upon which their first quarrel commenced. How it began, neither could clearly tell. It is only known that Strahan expressed a desire to dine upon roast beef, upon which Mrs. S. said that she abominated beef, and stated her preference to be roast turkey and oyster sauce. Strahan considered turkey child's food—he'd have roast beef or nothing, and she'd have turkey. And thus commenced the war of the Strahans. One ordered the butcher not to have fowl; the other gave strict instructions not to have beef brought into the house. Between them, they were both likely to starve if they remained at home; so the doctor went to the village tavern and dined on beef, while Mrs. S. visited some of her friends and partook of turkey.

After dinner, Dr. S. gave a wine supper in the room which he designated by the name of "study," a sort of variety store, in which he kept his library, writing desk, and spittoons. Here, also, were two glass cases, one of which contained a giant's skeleton, hung on wires—the other was an Egyptian mummy. The walls were hung with curiosities of all descriptions; among them a cane from a tree which grew over Washington's grave, a snuff box from wood of the Charter Oak, a chip from the United States frigate Constitution; minerals, shells and fossils of all descriptions, specimen ears of corn, enormous sized fruit and vegetables, cases of dried insects and jars of pickled reptiles. Stuffed birds were perched about the apartment, fine voluptuous French lithographs and portraits of distinguished personages were hung promiscuously on the walls; a long reading table, arm chairs, a prescription case, a mammoth bell-metal pestle and mortar, completed the furniture of the study.

During the same evening Mrs. S. had a whist party in the parlor.

Wine held her votaries in bondage longer than cards, and Mrs. S. had dismissed her party and retired hours before her liege lord came to his chamber; when he did come he found the door locked, himself outside and his wife within. In vain he called to her—she could and would not hear; and he was compelled to find a bed elsewhere, which he did, muttering to himself, "I'll tame her yet." And he lay all night forming a plan to bring her to submission. In the morning he asked to walk into his study; and there, seating himself in an arm chair, they renewed their fierce-worded quarrel—during which Mrs. S. called her husband a heartless, brainless fellow, who married her for money. To which the doctor replied by calling her a low, vulgar woman, who was only too glad to marry a professional gentleman and author to enable her to enter better society. After which she toyed with her fan, and finally pulled the bell-cord and ordered the servant who answered it to bring her carriage to the door.

"Where are you going?" demanded the doctor.

"To ride," replied the amiable Mrs. S.

"I will go with you, please."

"But I do not please."

"Very well, then, you will go alone, for you cannot go with me."

"You cannot go unless I go with you."

"We will see."

"Well, we will see."

And the gentleman walked out of the room, locked the door, put the key in his pocket, and left the house.

Mrs. S. did not sit down and burst into a flood of tears, but waited patiently for the servant to return whom she sent for the carriage. When he arrived, she told him through the key hole to return the horses to the stable, and place a ladder against the study window. The ladder was placed according to directions, and a turkey, with oysters and pastry brought up to her. The ladder was then removed, and everything prepared for the re-appearance of her husband.

About the middle of the afternoon the doctor returned home, stepped softly thro' the hall toward the study door, and peeped through the key hole expecting to see a striking picture of humility and grief.

Judge of his surprise then, when he saw Mrs. S. sitting before his long reading table; on her right, his bell-metal mortar, in which was a fire and a grate over it, upon which she was roasting his mammoth specimens of apples, sweet potatoes, and her turkey. Next her stood his water bath, in which she was cooking oysters, which she occasionally stirred with his silver spatula; on the table stood one of the bottles of wine left from a previous revelry, which the lady, for want of a champaigne opener, had deprived of its neck with a wedgewood pestle, using a four ounce graduated for a wine glass; she had cut up champaigne baskets for fire-wood with an Indian tomakawk. On the left hand stood the doctor's writing desk, which she had broken open, and scattered on the desk were tender missives of his earlier flames, manuscript pages of tales and sketches, unpublished odes, poems and unpaid tailor's bills, all in a huge pile, while the lady sat reading first a love letter, then an ode on Napoleon, and so on, throwing them, page after page, into the fire. Thus the husband's brain work and wooden curiosities were made to cook her dinner.

"Mrs. S.!" he shouted.

"Well, sir."

"Open the door."

"I am busy now, and cannot be disturbed."

"Open the door, or I'll burst it in."

"Do as you please, sir; but your mummy and giant skeleton are placed against the door, so be careful not to break them."

The doctor was foiled. For a few moments he stood and thought what course it was best to pursue. Suddenly recollecting the ladder, he hastened down stairs and through the hall, out doors, leaving the door unlocked and the key in it. His footsteps had scarce died upon the stairway, before his wife had removed both cases from the door, drawn the bolt, and stood in the entry. It was but the work of a moment to throw the remaining letters, poems and manuscripts into the fire, remove the wine and eatables, lock the door upon the outside, and place the key in her pocket.

Meanwhile the doctor was raising the ladder to the window, and by the time he had placed it and ascended half its length his wife and a favorite man-servant were watching him from a lower window.

The doctor pushed up the window and jumped in; the servant jumped out of the window and pulled down the ladder. In an instant Strahan saw that his bird had flown, and he rushed back to the window just as the ladder reached the ground.

"Put that ladder back here again!" the doctor roared from the upper window.

"Let it stay where it is," cried the wife from the lower window.

"Put it up instantly or I'll discharge you," bellowed the upper window.

"Let it alone and I'll double your wages," chimed in the lower window.

"Do as I tell you, blockhead," yelled the doctor, with rage.

"Come into the house, John," said Mrs. S., very coolly.

And John went into the house, leaving the medical gentleman heaping curses upon everybody, including his wife and servant John.

All night long the doctor was kept a prisoner. Just before retiring, his wife put her lips to the key-hole and whispered:

"What success in taming a shrew, doctor?"

The next morning she came to the door and called:

"Doctor?"

"Madam?" replied the gentleman.

"Should you like some breakfast?"

"I'm not particular."

"There is cold turkey left if you would like it."

The doctor deigned no reply, and the lady again left him alone.

During the afternoon, she again tapped at his door and called:

"Doctor?"

"Well, my dear," very humbly.

"Would you like some dinner?"

"I should."

"Will cold turkey do for you?"

"Anything, my dear."

"If I let you out will you promise never to lock me up again?"

"I will."

"And never object to my eating turkey again?"

"Never."

"Nor attempt to tame a shrew again?"

"Never."

"Then—you—may—come—out."

And the lady unlocked and threw open the door.

To this day, Dr. S. has not attempted to dictate to his wife as to what she shall eat, or when she shall ride, and has never been heard to boast again of "Taming a Shrew."

Insurance against loss or damage by fire, on Dwellings, Furniture, Stores, Warehouses, Merchandise, Mills, Manufactories, and most other kinds of property, can be effected in this company upon as favorable terms as the nature of the risks and security of policy-holders will admit.

The above is the oldest company doing business in this state, and with peculiar propriety has been denominated "The Old Hartford." As an indemnity to the insured, it refers to a solid million of assets well invested; and if anything were needed to commend it to the public for liberal patronage, we might offer its history of success in business and honorable dealing with its patrons, for over half a century, as amply sufficient for the purpose.

THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

DAILY GAZETTE.

An American Petruchio's Failure.

Mrs. Morton was a widow—a young, pretty rich widow—when Dr. Charles Strahan made her acquaintance. She was a poor but very handsome woman when Squire Morton married her, and at his death, two years after, she being the sole heir, put on her widow's weeds and pocketed the deceased husband's gold at the same time.

Madam Rumor said that poor old Morton never enjoyed a single hour after he married her; but how should Madam Rumor know? Of one thing, however, I can give my readers reliable information. Mrs. Morton had not been a widow twelve months ere she received, with seeming pleasure, very decided attentions from Dr. Strahan.

Do you inquire who Dr. Strahan was?—Well, he studied medicine, and had the title of M. D. conferred upon him, which he took great pleasure in attaching to his name with a grand flourish. But it is asserted that he never had half a dozen patients in as many years. He was a young man of prepossessing appearance, a ready talker on any subject, and was, in fact, first-rate company.—He played on the flute, and sang—was a good dancer, and an excellent partner at whist; besides, he had some literary reputation. He wrote poetry and two-column sketches for the "Weekly Leveler;" and last, but by no means least, he dressed in good taste and in the height of fashion.—But how he did it no one knew; but then it was no one's business.

But I must be allowed to contradict one rumor which gained considerable prevalency, to the effect that he supported himself by his literary labors; for no ordinary newspaper scribbler could hardly afford Strahan's wardrobe.

Old Squire Morton had been dead but little over a year, when Dr. Strahan, in spite of all that gossippers could say, married the widow and her fortune. The fact was, he wanted a rich wife. As to her, she was anxious to leave her weeds, and go into society again; and she could devise no readier way to accomplish this purpose than by marrying. When any one spoke to the doctor of her being a shrew, he merely remarked that he should take great pleasure in taming a shrew.

For three months they lived happily together, for it was in the height of the season, and between Cape May, Newport, Saratoga, and the White Mountains, they were alone with each other scarce three hours out of the twenty-four; consequently it was impossible for them to disagree. But the season was soon over, and they returned to their quiet home—the place of all others to study a wife or husband—for there is no unnatural excitement, no fashionable Mrs. A to out-dress, no profligate Mr. B to out-do in squandering money, no one to see or please but the "better half."

After a season of long continued gayety there necessarily follows one of extreme dullness; and when one is dull, one is easily displeased. Now Mr. and Mrs. Strahan were both of them remarkably dull, and, as a matter of course, both preferred being pleased to attempting to please—and of course, both were greatly displeased.

It was their third day at home, upon which their first quarrel commenced. How it began, neither could clearly tell. It is only known that Strahan expressed a desire to dine upon roast beef, upon which Mrs. S. said that she abominated beef, and stated her preference to be roast turkey and oyster sauce. Strahan considered turkey child's food—he'd have roast beef or nothing, and she'd have turkey. And thus commenced the war of the Strahans. One ordered the butcher not to have fowl; the other gave strict instructions not to have beef brought into the house. Between them, they were both likely to starve if they remained at home; so the doctor went to the village tavern and dined on beef, while Mrs. S. visited some of her friends and partook of turkey.

After dinner, Dr. S. gave a wine supper in the room which he designated by the name of "study," a sort of variety store, in which he kept his library, writing desk, and spittoons. Here, also, were two glass cases, one of which contained a giant's skeleton, hung on wires—the other was an Egyptian mummy. The walls were hung with curiosities of all descriptions; among them a cane from a tree which grew over Washington's grave, a snuff box from wood of the Charter Oak, a chip from the United States frigate Constitution; minerals, shells and fossils of all descriptions, specimen ears of corn, enormous sized fruit and vegetables, cases of dried insects and jars of pickled reptiles. Stuffed birds were perched about the apartment, fine voluptuous French lithographs and portraits of distinguished personages were hung promiscuously on the walls; a long reading table, arm chairs, a prescription case, a mammoth bell-metal pestle and mortar, completed the furniture of the study.

During the same evening Mrs. S. had a whist party in the parlor.

Wine held her votaries in bondage longer than cards, and Mrs. S. had dismissed her party and retired hours before her liege lord came to his chamber; when he did come he found the door locked, himself outside and his wife within. In vain he called to her—she could and would not hear; and he was compelled to find a bed elsewhere, which he did, muttering to himself, "I'll tame her yet." And he lay all night forming a plan to bring her to submission. In the morning he asked to walk into his study; and there, seating himself in an arm chair, they renewed their fierce worded quarrel—during which Mrs. S. called her husband a heartless, brainless fellow, who married her for money. To which the doctor replied by calling her a low, vulgar woman, who was only too glad to marry a professional gentleman and author to enable her to enter better society. After which she toyed with her fan, and finally pulled the bell-cord and ordered the servant who answered it to bring her carriage to the door.

"Where are you going?" demanded the doctor.

"To ride," replied the amiable Mrs. S.

"I will go with you, please."

"But I do not please."

"Very well, then, you will go alone, for you cannot go with me."

"You cannot go unless I go with you."

"We will see."

"Well, we will see."

And the gentleman walked out of the room, locked the door, put the key in his pocket, and left the house.

Mrs. S. did not sit down and burst into a flood of tears, but waited patiently for the servant to return whom she sent for the carriage. When he arrived, she told him through the key hole to return the horses to the stable, and place a ladder against the study window. The ladder was placed according to directions, and a turkey, with oysters and pastry brought up to her. The ladder was then removed, and everything prepared for the re-appearance of her husband.

About the middle of the afternoon the doctor returned home, stepped softly thro' the hall toward the study door, and peeped through the key hole expecting to see a striking picture of humility and grief.

Judge of his surprise then, when he saw Mrs. S. sitting before his long reading table; on her right, his bell-metal mortar, in which was a fire and a grate over it, upon which she was roasting his mammoth specimens of apples, sweet potatoes, and her turkey. Next her stood his water bath, in which she was cooking oysters, which she occasionally stirred with his silver spatula; on the table stood one of the bottles of wine left from a previous revelry, which the lady, for want of a champaigne opener, had deprived of its neck with a wedgewood pestle, using a four ounce graduated for a wine glass; she had cut up champaigne baskets for fire-wood with an Indian tomakawk. On the left hand stood the doctor's writing desk, which she had broken open, and scattered on the desk were tender missives of his earlier flames, manuscript pages of tales and sketches, unpublished odes, poems and unpaid tailor's bills, all in a huge pile, while the lady sat reading first a love letter, then an ode on Napoleon, and so on, throwing them, page after page, into the fire. Thus the husband's brain work and wooden curiosities were made to cook her dinner.

"Mrs. S.!" he shouted.

"Well, sir."

"Open the door."

"I am busy now, and cannot be disturbed."

"Open the door, or I'll burst it in."

"Do as you please, sir; but your mummy and giant skeleton are placed against the door, so be careful not to break them."

The doctor was foiled. For a few moments he stood and thought what course it was best to pursue. Suddenly recollecting the ladder, he hastened down stairs and through the hall, out doors, leaving the door unlocked and the key in it. His footsteps had scarce died upon the stairway, before his wife had removed both cases from the door, drawn the bolt, and stood in the entry. It was but the work of a moment to throw the remaining letters, poems and manuscripts into the fire, remove the wine and eatables, lock the door upon the outside, and place the key in her pocket.

Meanwhile the doctor was raising the ladder to the window, and by the time he had placed it and ascended half its length his wife and a favorite man-servant were watching him from a lower window.

The doctor pushed up the window and jumped in; the servant jumped out of the window and pulled down the ladder. In an instant Strahan saw that his bird had flown, and he rushed back to the window just as the ladder reached the ground.

"Put that ladder back here again!" the doctor roared from the upper window.

"Let it stay where it is," cried the wife from the lower window.

"Put it up instantly or I'll discharge you," bellowed the upper window.

"Let it alone and I'll double your wages," chimed in the lower window.

"Do as I tell you, blockhead," yelled the doctor, with rage.

"Come into the house, John," said Mrs. S., very coolly.

And John went into the house, leaving the medical gentleman heaping curses upon everybody, including his wife and servant John.

All night long the doctor was kept a prisoner. Just before retiring, his wife put her lips to the key-hole and whispered:

"What success in taming a shrew, doctor?"

The next morning she came to the door and called:

"Doctor?"

"Madam?" replied the gentleman.

"Should you like some breakfast?"

"I'm not particular."

"There is cold turkey left if you would like it."

The doctor deigned no reply, and the lady again left him alone.

During the afternoon, she again tapped at his door and called:

"Doctor?"

"Well, my dear," very humbly.

"Would you like some dinner?"

"I should."

"Will cold turkey do for you?"

"Anything, my dear."

"If I let you out will you promise never to lock me up again?"

"I will."

"And never object to my eating turkey again?"

"Never."

"Nor attempt to tame a shrew again?"

"Never."

"Then—you—may—come—out."

And the lady unlocked and threw open the door.

To this day, Dr. S. has not attempted to dictate to his wife as to what she shall eat, or when she shall ride, and has never been heard to boast again of "Taming a Shrew."

Official Paper of the City.

The fugitive Slave Law.

The New York Courier and Enquirer, speaking of the execution of the fugitive slave law in the free states, says:

"What the south should ask is that when its fugitive slaves are not returned it should receive an indemnity for them. In its present temper South Corolina would undoubtedly desire the literal fulfillment of the law, because it knows that the law is odious to the north. That the Palmetto state is not the representative of southern feeling is well known. Her ultra tendencies are too often manifested. The proposition for receiving indemnity for fugitive slaves was made by southern men some years since, and received the sanction of those who were considered the firmest friends of the south. Mr. Foot, of Miss., gave it his support; why then should not a similar proposition be equally acceptable to the south at the present time? Why should the south desire to insist upon the enforcement of a law which it knows was intended as a harsh one?"

The Courier endorses the proposition of the Albany Evening Journal that those counties in which fugitive slaves are rescued by violence from officials who have them in charge, shall be liable for the value of the slave thus rescued.

We very much question whether the people of the north will be willing to pay for runaway slaves, under any circumstances. We believe they will not be willing to acknowledge, voluntarily, in this way, that there is property in man. Slaves would have to be paid for, under this proposition, by a tax upon all the property of a county, which would add to our already interminable difficulties in relation to the legality of taxes. The principle of making the people of a whole district or county pay for the acts of one or two, or at most a very few men, is unequal and unjust, and more especially so when at the same time the rightfulness of chattelism in a human being is to be acknowledged.

To add such an obligation as this to the odious requirements of the present fugitive slave law could not be borne by men who have any regard for conscience, or the moral law, and we look upon any compromise which shall impose the necessity of paying the slave holder for his runaway slaves, as utterly inadmissable.

At the same time, we know of very few, if indeed there are any, among us, who deny the constitutional obligation to deliver up the fugitive from service to his master, upon claim and proof being made on the spot that he is such a fugitive as was contemplated by the constitution. But we do deny that any citizen shall be compelled to assist in the capture of a slave; or to hold him after he has been arrested; or to be made liable to fines and imprisonment for mere acts of charity and hospitality without intent to assist the runaway to escape. If we are to have a new arrangement in relation to fugitive slaves, we shall continue to insist that there shall be some mode of determining the validity of the claim to the slave, at the time and on the spot where the claim is made. Kidnapping under the pretext of ownership, has become so common that there is no safety in permitting the fugitive to be taken away by any and every person who makes a "claim," and is willing to swear to it. Fraudulent papers of this kind have multiplied to such a degree, and are so easily obtained, that some legal and sure means should be instituted to determine their validity in the state where the fugitive is arrested. There are wretches who make kidnapping a business, and so great is this evil, and so dangerous is it to an unfortunate class in our midst, that we cannot turn a deaf ear to their appeals for protection.

In a word, we do not object to fulfilling the demands of the constitution on this subject, if a proper law shall be enacted, guarding and protecting the rights of all who may come under its operation—neither stopping short nor going beyond the requirements of that instrument. To ask us to do more than this will be entirely useless.

The War in Kansas.—Read the dispatches this morning! What news! Let military expedition return in all haste, taking good care, however, not to arrive here earlier than midnight. It was an outrage on the gallant soldiery of St. Louis to take them out on such a bogus business.—Missouri Democrat.

It does look a little like the "Virginia scare," both in its beginning and in its ending. The lesson taught is, never believe "border r[illegible]n" rumors, and don't order out the [illegible]s until it is certain there is an enemy in the field. By following this rule much expense will be saved, and some chagrin.

Congress.—Congress meets on Monday next. The message will probably be delivered Tuesday, and will most likely be here by Wednesday, or Thursday. We see it intimated that as Mr. Buchanan "knows no west" he will not send his message in advance of its delivery to this region.

☞ Georgia will probably have no vote in the electoral college. Breckinridge has carried the state by a plurality of about 2,500, while her constitution requires a majority of all the votes to secure a choice. In the event of failure to elect before the people, electors are to be chosen by the legislature. That body, however, has adjourned without action and will not be reconvened to act in the matter.

Wreck of the Dacotah.—From the Buffalo Commercial we gather the following particulars of the wreck of the propellor Dacotah:

This ill-fated vessel is supposed to have struck on Saturday night at 9 o'clock. She was first discovered on Monday morning, by Mr. Bennett, opposite his house, one mile above Sturgeon Bay. At 9 o'clock the night before, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and their son heard amidst the howling of the tempest, the voice of some one hallooing apparently in distress. They went out and searched in vain for some one, for an hour. The next morning Mrs. Bennett was so convinced that she heard some one hallooing, in distress from the beach, that she sent her son to look, and he found the wreck.—The vessel apparently broke up outside, by striking a reef, as one-half of the entire bottom was landed high and dry on the beach—all perfect. The debris of the wreck and cargo are strewn for miles along the beach. The bones of three men have been found, and are in charge of the coroner, A. Dewey, of Evans Centre. Two of them have been identified as Bartholomew Macnamra, deck hand, and Edward Kennedy, watchman.—The other man could not be identified. The life-boat is on the beach, nearly perfect, and it may be that some one reached the shore alive in her, and perished before reaching the dwelling. An examination is taking place to discover if this is so. There is two feet of snow on the level at Evans' Centre. Some portions of the wreck are hanging off in the lake, apparently hung by the machinery and anchors. Captain Thomas, of the board of underwriters, and captains Collins and Gaylord, were left in charge of the wreck and cargo by Capt. Dorr, and did all they could, in co-operation with the coroner, to recover the bodies and forward them to their friends. It was a sad sight to see those bodies saved—froze stark and stiff, with the red color of life still in their cheeks! Poor sailors! their last work is done. God help the poor, bereaved ones left behind.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says of the several reputed West Point cadets, who have announced their determination to fight for S. C., in the event of her seceding from the Union, that one of them was dismissed last June, in consequence of his deficiency in French and the large number of demerit marks placed opposite his name; a second and a third were dismissed at the same time, the first for bad conduct, the second for want of scholarship; the fourth still remains in the institution, but stands fifty-third in a class of fifty-seven, and is already charged with one hundred and thirty-eight demerits. The names of the four others who signed the manifesto are not on the catalogue at all.

Barnum a Practical Joker.—During a republican glorification at Bridgeport, Conn., P. T. Barnum played a rich joke on his son-in-law, D. W. Thompson, a prominent democrat. Barnum invited Thompson and his family to his house, and while they were awaiting the arrival of the procession, Barnum and his assistants ran and illuminated Thomson's house. The republicans of course were astonished to see the illumination, and made many complimentary remarks in favor of Mr. Thompson's course. The latter, when he learned the trick, was disposed to raise a storm, but soon joined in the genuine laugh over the clever trick.

The Southern Ultimatum.—The Richmond Enquirer lays down the terms upon which the south will consent to remain in the Union, as folllows:

The northern states which have declared war against us—they alone are competent to shield us from revolution. Let each northern state, through her legislature, or in convention assembled, promptly repeal all nullifying laws passed for the injury of the constitutional rights of the south; pass laws to secure the easy and prompt execution of the fugitive slave law; pass other laws imposing adequate penalties on all malefactors who shall hereafter assist or enourage the escape of fugitive slaves; pass other laws declaring and protecting the right of slaveholders to travel and sojourn in northern states, accompanied by their slaves, instruct their senators and representatives, in congress to repeal the law prohibiting the sale of slaves in the district of Columbia, and to pass laws sufficient for the protection of slave property in all the territories of the Union; and let these senators and representatives promptly obey such instructions.

This will only secure the constitutional rights of the southern states from aggression, actual or menaced. This will do more than merely fulfil the constitutional obligations of the northern states. This, and nothing short of this, will suffice to prevent revolution.

The Idea of the Spinning Jenny.—Suddenly he (James Hargreaves,) dropped upon his knees, and rolled on the stone floor at full length. He lay with his face toward the floor, and made lines and circles with the end of a burned stick. He rose and went to the fire to burn his stick. He took hold of his bristly hair with one hand, and rubbed his forehead and nose with the other and the blackened stick. Then he sat upon a chair, and placed his head between his hands, his elbows on his knees, and gazed intently on the floor. Then he sprang to his feat, and replied to some feeble questions of his wife, (who had not risen since the day she gave birth to a little stranger,) by a loud assurance that he had it; and, taking her in his sturdy arms, in the blankets, the baby in her arms, he lifted her out, and held her over the black drawing on the floor. These he explained, and she joined a small, hopeful, happy laugh with his high toned assurance that she should never toil at the spinningwheel; that he would never again "play," and have his loom standing for want of weft. She asked some questions, which he answered, after seating her in the arm chair, by laying her spinning-wheel on its back, the horizontal spindle standing vertically, while he made the wheel revolve, and drew a roving of cotton from the spindle into an attenuated thread. "Our fortune is made when that is made," he said, speaking of his drawings on the floor. "What will you call it?" asked his wife. "Call it? What an we call it after thyself, Jenny! They called thee 'spinning Jenny' afore I had thee, because thou beat every lass in Stonehill Moor at the wheel. What if we call it 'Spinning Jenny?'"—Men Who Have Risen.

The Chivalry Down on Bunker Hill.—The N. Y. Times says: Having had the pleasure of meeting in Boston with Mr. Farnham, and having learned his political proclivities, we penned a few days since the following item: "Ralph Farnham, the sole survivor of the battle of Bunker Hill, and the recipient of much kindness from our late royal guest, has voted at every Presidential election, and has made up his mind to vote for Lincoln on Tuesday next."

Whereupon the Charleston Mercury waxeth wroth, and patriotically expresseth itself thus: "Ralph Farnham is perhaps as great a humbug as was the battle of Bunker Hill."

Almost an Accident.—Yesterday morning as one of the pressmen was engaged in adjusting the inking apparatus of our small power press, the ends of his neck tie were caught in the cog-wheels and he was brought up "choking" in about two seconds. Fortunately the tie gave way just in time to save him from being choked to death.—Madison Argus.

Loss of Capt. W. S. Cross.—Among those lost by the recent gale on the lakes was Capt. W. S. Cross of Milwaukee. He commanded the propeller Dacotah, and was lost on Lake Erie with all on board. Capt. Cross was about 42 years of age, and one of the oldest settlers in the state. He was a member of the legislature of 1858, and was well known throughout the state.

The Monroe papers announce the arrival in that town of "Cataract engine and hose cart No. 1," said to be a beautiful machine. At a late meeting of the company, Norman Churchill was elected foreman.—The company is in a good state of preservation and ready for action.

A Woman Burned to Death While at Prayer.—The Lafayette (Ind.) Courier says:

Mrs. Catherine Gray, a widow lady, eighty years of age, residing in the south part of town, was burned to death last week under circumstances of a peculiarly distressing character. On Thursday evening she invited a little boy in the neighborhood to keep her company for the night, and after tucking him warmly under the covers, kneeled down at the bedside to say her prayers. While in this position her dress took fire from the candle, and in an instant she was enveloped in flames. The fire communicated to the curtains of the bed, and intent upon the preservation of the child and forgetful of herself, she fought the flames until her hands were burned to a blister, and succeeded in dragging the little fellow into the middle of the room. The affrighted boy broke from her embrace and ran to the nearest neighbors. The alarm was promptly given, but before aid could be procured the poor woman had been burned past recovery.

The neighbors found her standing in the middle of the floor, with the lower part of her apparel burned entirely off, and her limbs and abdomen horribly disfigured.—The unfortunate woman lingered in great agony until Saturday, when she expired.

Thanksgiving in New York—Mayor Wood thinks there is nothing to be Grateful for.—The proclamation of Mayor Wood announcing that the 29th of November is to be observed in the city as a day of thanksgiving, is the most disgraceful mixture of blasphemy, political spleen and personal impudence, with which it has been our fortune to meet for a long time. Its malignity would be frightful were it not simply ludicrous. After designating the day to be observed, he says:

While in my judgment the country, either in its political, commercial or financial aspects, presents no features for which we should be thankful, we are yet called upon by every consideration of self-preservation to offer up to the Father of all Mercies devout and fervent prayer, for His interposition and protection from the impending evils which threaten our institutions and the national interests of the people.

Therefore, acknowledging our dependence upon Almighty God, and deeply sensible of our own unworthiness, let the day set apart as Thanksgiving be observed by the people of this city as one of humiliation and supplication—not omitting in our prayers the expression of the hope that those who have, in violation of the federal compact, unpatriotically and unwisely inflicted these injuries upon us, may be the only sufferers by their own wickedness and folly.

A Sample of "Chivalry."—The Honorable (?) R. B. Rheit, of South Carolina, in a speech at Charleston, the other day, made use of the following polite and truthful language:

"They (the republicans) have elected a southern renegade—spewed out of the bosom of Kentucky into Illinois—and a northern white-washed octoroon mulatto, to be president and vice-president of the United States."

Now, does Mr. Rhett, or any of his coadjutors, really suppose that the people of the north can be influenced by such crazy and disgraceful talk? Or is it merely his purpose by retailing their miserable slang, to inflence and exasperate the south beyond all reason.

Official Paper of the City.

The fugitive Slave Law.

The New York Courier and Enquirer, speaking of the execution of the fugitive slave law in the free states, says:

"What the south should ask is that when its fugitive slaves are not returned it should receive an indemnity for them. In its present temper South Carolina would undoubtedly desire the literal fulfillment of the law, because it knows that the law is odious to the north. That the Palmetto state is not the representative of southern feeling is well known. Her ultra tendencies are too often manifested. The proposition for receiving indemnity for fugitive slaves was made by southern men some years since, and received the sanction of those who were considered the firmest friends of the south. Mr. Foot, of Miss., gave it his support; why then should not a similar proposition be equally acceptable to the south at the present time? Why should the south desire to insist upon the enforcement of a law which it knows was intended as a harsh one?"

The Courier endorses the proposition of the Albany Evening Journal that those counties in which fugitive slaves are rescued by violence from officials who have them in charge, shall be liable for the value of the slave thus rescued.

We very much question whether the people of the north will be willing to pay for runaway slaves, under any circumstances. We believe they will not be willing to acknowledge, voluntarily, in this way, that there is property in man. Slaves would have to be paid for, under this proposition, by a tax upon all the property of a county, which would add to our already interminable difficulties in relation to the legality of taxes. The principle of making the people of a whole district or county pay for the acts of one or two, or at most a very few men, is unequal and unjust, and more especially so when at the same time the rightfulness of chattelism in a human being is to be acknowledged.

To add such an obligation as this to the odious requirements of the present fugitive slave law could not be borne by men who have any regard for conscience, or the moral law, and we look upon any compromise which shall impose the necessity of paying the slave holder for his runaway slaves, as utterly inadmissable.

At the same time, we know of very few, if indeed there are any, among us, who deny the constitutional obligation to deliver up the fugitive from service to his master, upon claim and proof being made on the spot that he is such a fugitive as was contemplated by the constitution. But we do deny that any citizen shall be compelled to assist in the capture of a slave; or to hold him after he has been arrested; or to be made liable to fines and imprisonment for mere acts of charity and hospitality without intent to assist the runaway to escape. If we are to have a new arrangement in relation to fugitive slaves, we shall continue to insist that there shall be some mode of determining the validity of the claim to the slave, at the time and on the spot where the claim is made. Kidnapping under the pretext of ownership, has become so common that there is no safety in permitting the fugitive to be taken away by any and every person who makes a "claim," and is willing to swear to it. Fraudulent papers of this kind have multiplied to such a degree, and are so easily obtained, that some legal and sure means should be instituted to determine their validity in the state where the fugitive is arrested. There are wretches who make kidnapping a business, and so great is this evil, and so dangerous is it to an unfortunate class in our midst, that we cannot turn a deaf ear to their appeals for protection.

In a word, we do not object to fulfilling the demands of the constitution on this subject, if a proper law shall be enacted, guarding and protecting the rights of all who may come under its operation—neither stopping short nor going beyond the requirements of that instrument. To ask us to do more than this will be entirely useless.

THE WAR IN KANSAS.—Read the dispatches this morning! What news! Let military expedition return in all haste, taking good care, however, not to arrive here earlier than midnight. It was an outrage on the gallant soldiery of St. Louis to take them out on such a bogus business.—Missouri Democrat.

It does look a little like the "Virginia scare," both in its beginning and in its ending. The lesson taught is, never believe "border r[illegible]n" rumors, and don't order out the [illegible]s until it is certain there is an enemy i[illegible]e field. By following this rule much expense will be saved, and some chagrin.

CONGRESS.—Congress meets on Monday next. The message will probably be delivered Tuesday, and will most likely be [illegible] by Wednesday, or Thursday. We see it intimated that as Mr. Buchanan "knows no west" he will not send his message in advance of its delivery to this region.

☞ Georgia will probably have no vote in the electoral college. Breckinridge has carried the state by a plurality of about 2,500, while her constitution requires a majority of all the votes to secure a choice. In the event of failure to elect before the people, electors are to be chosen by the legislature. That body, however, has adjourned without action and will not be reconvened to act in the matter.

WRECK OF THE DACOTAH.—From the Buffalo Commercial we gather the following particulars of the wreck of the propellor Dacotah:

This ill-fated vessel is supposed to have struck on Saturday night at 9 o'clock. She was first discovered on Monday morning, by Mr. Bennett, opposite his house, one mile above Sturgeon Bay. At 9 o'clock the night before, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and their son heard amidst the howling of the tempest, the voice of some one hallooing apparently in distress. They went out and searched in vain for some one, for an hour. The next morning Mrs. Bennett was so convinced that she heard some one hallooing in distress from the beach, that she sent her son to look, and he found the wreck.—The vessel apparently broke up outside, by striking a reef, as one half of the entire bottom was landed high and dry on the beach—all perfect. The debris of the wreck and cargo are strewn for miles along the beach. The bones of three men have been found, and are in charge of the coroner, A. Dewey, of Evans Centre. Two of them have been identified as Bartholomew Macnamra, deck hand, and Edward Kennedy, watchman.—The other man could not be identified. The life-boat is on the beach, nearly perfect, and it may be that some one reached the shore alive in her, and perished before reaching the dwelling. An examination is taking place to discover if this is so. There is two feet of snow on the level at Evans' Centre. Some portions of the wreck are hanging off in the lake, apparently hung by the machinery and anchors. Captain Thomas, of the board of underwriters, and captains Collins and Gaylord, were left in charge of the wreck and cargo by Capt. Dorr, and did all they could, in co-operation with the coroner, to recover the bodies and forward them to their friends. It was a sad sight to see those bodies saved—froze stark and stiff, with the red color of life still in their cheeks! Poor sailors! their last work is done. God help the poor, bereaved ones left behind.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says of the several reputed West Point cadets, who have announced their determination to fight for S. C., in the event of her seceding from the Union, that one of them was dismissed last June, in consequence of his deficiency in French and the large number of demerit marks placed opposite his name; a second and a third were dismissed at the same time, the first for bad conduct, the second for want of scholarship; the fourth still remains in the institution, but stands fifty-third in a class of fifty-seven, and is already charged with one hundred and thirty-eight demerits. The names of the four others who signed the manifesto are not on the catalogue at all.

BARNUM A PRACTICAL JOKER.—During a republican glorification at Bridgeport, Conn., P. T. Barnum played a rich joke on his son-in-law, D. W. Thompson, a prominent democrat. Barnum invited Thompson and his family to his house, and while they were awaiting the arrival of the procession, Barnum and his assistants ran and illuminated Thomson's house. The republicans of course were astonished to see the illumination, and made many complimentary remarks in favor of Mr. Thompson's course. The latter, when he learned the trick, was disposed to raise a storm, but soon joined in the genuine laugh over the clever trick.

THE SOUTHERN ULTIMATUM.—The Richmond Enquirer lays down the terms upon which the south will consent to remain in the Union, as folllows:

The northern states which have declared war against us—they alone are competent to shield us from revolution. Let each northern state, through her legislature, or in convention assembled, promptly repeal all nullifying laws passed for the injury of the constitutional rights of the south; pass laws to secure the easy and prompt execution of the fugitive slave law; pass other laws imposing adequate penalties on all malefactors who shall hereafter assist or encourage the escape of fugitive slaves; pass other laws declaring and protecting the right of slaveholders to travel and sojourn in northern states, accompanied by their slaves, instruct their senators and representatives, in congress to repeal the law prohibiting the sale of slaves in the district of Columbia, and to pass laws sufficient for the protection of slave property in all the territories of the Union; and let these senators and representatives promptly obey such instructions.

This will only secure the constitutional rights of the southern states from aggression, actual or menaced. This will do more than merely fulfil the constitutional obligations of the northern states. This, and nothing short of this, will suffice to prevent revolution.

THE IDEA OF THE SPINNING JENNY.—Suddenly he (James Hargreaves,) dropped upon his knees, and rolled on the stone floor at full length. He lay with his face toward the floor, and made lines and circles with the end of a burned stick. He rose and went to the fire to burn his stick. He took hold of his bristly hair with one hand, and rubbed his forehead and nose with the other and the blackened stick. Then he sat upon a chair, and placed his head between his hands, his elbows on his knees, and gazed intently on the floor. Then he sprang to his feet, and replied to some feeble questions of his wife, (who had not risen since the day she gave birth to a little stranger,) by a loud assurance that he had it; and, taking her in his sturdy arms, in the blankets, the baby in her arms, he lifted her out, and held her over the black drawing on the floor. These he explained, and she joined a small, hopeful, happy laugh with his high toned assurance that she should never toil at the spinningwheel; that he would never again "play," and have his loom standing for want of weft. She asked some questions, which he answered, after seating her in the arm chair, by laying her spinning-wheel on its back, the horizontal spindle standing vertically, while he made the wheel revolve, and drew a roving of cotton from the spindle into an attenuated thread. "Our fortune is made when that is made," he said, speaking of his drawings on the floor. "What will you call it?" asked his wife. "Call it? What an we call it after thyself, Jenny! They called thee 'spinning Jenny' afore I had thee, because thou beat every lass in Stonehill. Moor at the wheel. What if we call it 'Spinning Jenny?'"—Men Who Have Risen.

THE CHIVALRY DOWN ON BUNKER HILL.—The N. Y. Times says: Having had the pleasure of meeting in Boston with Mr. Farnham, and having learned his political proclivities, we penned a few days since the following item: "Ralph Farnham, the sole survivor of the battle of Bunker Hill, and the recipient of much kindness from our late royal guest, has voted at every Presidential election, and has made up his mind to vote for Lincoln on Tuesday next."

Whereupon the Charleston Mercury waxeth wroth, and patriotically expresseth itself thus: "Ralph Farnham is perhaps as great a humbug as was the battle of Bunker Hill."

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning as one of the pressmen was engaged in adjusting the inking apparatus of our small power press, the ends of his neck tie were caught in the cog-wheels and he was brought up "choking" in about two seconds. Fortunately the tie gave way just in time to save him from being choked to death.—Madison Argus.

Mississippi returns a population of 883,715, being an increase of 187,189 in ten years.

LOSS OF CAPT. W. S. CROSS.—Among those lost by the recent gale on the lakes was Capt. W. S. Cross of Milwaukee. He commanded the propeller Dacotah, and was lost on Lake Erie with all on board. Capt. Cross was about 42 years of age, and one of the oldest settlers in the state. He was a member of the legislature of 1858, and was well known throughout the state.

The South Carolina ministers preach secession from the pulpit. The southern democracy are not as much opposed to political preaching as formerly.

Colored suffrage was deleated in New York at the late election by over 100,000 majority.

A dead body in an advanced state of decay was found in a mineral hole at Mineral Point a few days since, supposed to be that of John Fredett, an attachee of Antonio Brothers' Circus, who visited that city in the latter part of July last.

John Haffer, Seaman Haffer, and Thomas Jarvies, charged with the murder of William Haley, at Oak Creek, on election day, after an examination before Judge Mallory, have been remanded to prison to await the action of the grand jury.

Marshal Lewis has been discharged from the action brought against him by J. T. Salsman (brother-in-law of Booth) for assault and battery.

A lap dog of the King Charles species was sold at auction in London, not long ago, for $2,600. We will bet the purchaser of that "sore eyes" would not give a cent in charity to a poor man.

The water gas company of Philadelphia offer to supply the Philadelphia city works with gas at seventy-five cents per thousand feet.

The citizens of Charleston are said to be suffering for want of coal—the usual coal boats not daring to venture into that port while the present excitement continues.

During the month of October 39,101 bushels of wheat were shipped from Brodhead.

Among the recent patents is one to Hiram Moore, Brandon, Wis., for improvement in seed drills.

The Waukesha Journal says that one C. Jones, of the town of Waukesha, had his arm caught in a threshing machine last Thursday and torn off above the the wrist, letting the hand drop by the side of the machine.

M. Jules Janin, in a late theatrical article, begins with the words, "By Garibaldi! I will relate to you," etc. This a new oath, which the classical writer substituted for the old one of "By Hercules!"

A New York fashion writer says of dress goods: Flash has had its day. The rainbow plaids, with squares as big as small windows, are consigned to oblivion, and ladies are no longer to be seen walking the streets inclosed in chequer work. The railroad stripes are also numbered with the things that were.

The Monroe papers announce the arrival in that town of "Cataract engine and hose cart No. 1," said to be a beautiful machine. At a late meeting of the company, Norman Churchill was elected foreman.—The company is in a good state of preservation and ready for action.

A WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH WHILE AT PRAYER.—The Lafayette (Ind.) Courier says:

Mrs. Catherine Gray, a widow lady, eighty years of age, residing in the south part of town, was burned to death last week under circumstances of a peculiarly distressing character. On Thursday evening she invited a little boy in the neighborhood to keep her company for the night, and after tucking him warmly under the covers, kneeled down at the bedside to say her prayers. While in this position her dress took fire from the candle, and in an instant she was enveloped in flames. The fire communicated to the curtains of the bed, and intent upon the preservation of the child and forgetful of herself, she fought the flames until her hands were burned to a blister, and succeeded in dragging the little fellow into the middle of the room. The affrighted boy broke from her embrace and ran to the nearest neighbors. The alarm was promptly given, but before aid could be procured the poor woman had been burned past recovery.

The neighbors found her standing in the middle of the floor, with the lower part of her apparel burned entirely off, and her limbs and abdomen horribly disfigured.—The unfortunate woman lingered in great agony until Saturday, when she expired.

THANKSGIVING IN NEW YORK—MAYOR WOOD THINKS THERE IS NOTHING TO BE GRATEFUL FOR.—The proclamation of Mayor Wood announcing that the 29th of November is to be observed in the city as a day of thanksgiving, is the most disgraceful mixture of blasphemy, political spleen and personal impudence, with which it has been our fortune to meet for a long time. Its malignity would be frightful were it not simply ludicrous. After designating the day to be observed, he says:

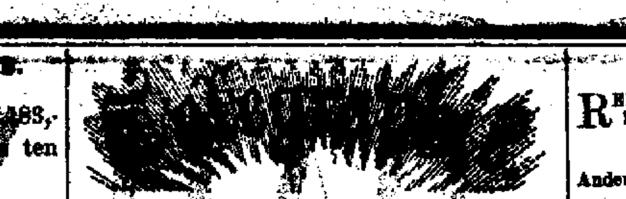

While in my judgment the country, either in its political, commercial or financial aspects, presents no features for which we should be thankful, we are yet called upon by every consideration of self-preservation to offer up to the Father of all Mercies devout and fervent prayer, for His interposition and protection from the impending evils which threaten our institutions and the national interests of the people.

Therefore, acknowledging our dependence upon Almighty God, and deeply sensible of our own unworthiness, let the day set apart as Thanksgiving be observed by the people of this city as one of humiliation and supplication—not omitting in our prayers the expression of the hope that those who have, in violation of the federal compact, unpatriotically and unwisely inflicted these injuries upon us, may be the only sufferers by their own wickedness and folly.

A SAMPLE OF "CHIVALRY."—The Honorable (?) R. B. Rheit, of South Carolina, in a speech at Charleston, the other day, made use of the following polite and truthful language:

"They (the republicans) have elected a southern renegade—spewed out of the bosom of Kentucky into Illinois—and a northern white-washed octoroon mulatto, to be president and vice-president of the United States."

Now, does Mr. Rheit, or any of his coadjutors, really suppose that the people of the north can be influenced by such crazy and disgraceful talk? Or is it merely his purpose by retailing their miserable slang, to influence and exasperate the south beyond all reason.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 30.

The banks to-day discounted moderately; much relief was experienced by the business community.

Another immense meeting was held at Institute Hall to-night, at which speeches were made by Mr. Meninger and others.—Meninger recommended if the government did not surrender Fort Moultrie to her on South Carolina retiring from the Union, that it be taken by force.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.

The St. Andrew's Society celebrated its 114th anniversary at St. Nicholas last night, Senator Crittenden was present.

Hon. Charles Sumner lectured to an immense audience at Cooper Institute last night, on the life and character of Lafayette. The aim of the discourse was to prove that Lafayette was uncompromisingly hostile to the system of African slavery.

A Washington despatch to the World says that Breckinridge, who has arrived, favors the idea of a well defined line of policy by southern members of congress.

Col. Florence, editor of the National Democratic Review, received a serious wound on the head by a stone thrown thro' the window of his office last evening.

A letter from Mr. Houston, of Alabama, states that the feeling among conservative men of that state is rapidly tending towards secession. He, however, is for the Union.

The Herald's Washington despatch says Judge McGrath is likely to be the next Governor of South Carolina, or first President of the Palmetto Republic.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.

The Times' Washington correspondent says among the arrivals of members of congress to-day are many southerners who bring their families. The fear of secession is not so strong to-day. A conservative compromise measure is being prepared here to cover the entire sectional issue.

A STRONG DEFENSE.—At a recent term of the supreme court in Bangor, the case of Newcomb vs. the inhabitants of Newburg, for damages for alleged defects in the highway, came up for trial, when the defendants put in the following specifications of defense:

1. No such town as Newburg.
2. No such man as Newcomb.
3. No road.
4. No hole in the road.
5. No horse ever injured.
6. Horse injured did not belong to plaintiff.
7. Plaintiff's finger not hurt.
8. Plaintiff's finger injured two years before.
9. Plaintiff injured his own finger by pounding it with a rock two years previous to the alleged cause of action against town, in anticipation of and preparation for the same.

It is quite unnecessary to add that the verdict was for defendants.

GAME LAW.—The time in which, by law, quail or prairie chickens may be killed and sold expires to-day. The penalty, which is a fine of two dollars for each bird, and which applies to any person in possession as well as the person killing or selling, we hear will be enforced by a complaint of some person interested in enforcing the law. It will be well for every body to refrain from any violation of the statute.

GALENA AND CHICAGO RAILROAD.—A change in the time table of this road has been made, and will be found in its advertisement, the morning train leaving at 8:40.

EXCHANGE was dull and lower, yesterday, in New York. Missouri 6's were 69 and Tennessee 6's, 76.

GOOD CLOTHING.—Undoubtedly one of the best places in this city for the purchase of a good garment is at the store of J. C. Echlin. He keeps always an excellent stock, and manufactures in a superior style, while his prices conform to the lowest rates. An excellent and substantial business attests the success of his efforts to establish a reliable trade—a trade founded upon the satisfaction of his cystomers. See his advertisement.

☞ The St. Louis Democrat has a leading editorial urging the appointment of Hon. Schuyler Colfax of Indiana as Postmaster General, on the ground that he is a man of great energy and industry, and combines with these qualifications a practical knowledge of the department, obtained through his services on the congressional postoffice committee.

The Austin, Texas, Gazette says that Breckinridge's majority in that state may exceed 40,000.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO A MEMBER OF THE ASSEMBLY.—We learn from the Madison Journal that Dominick O'Malley, a member elect from the fifth assembly district of Dane county, had his left arm caught in the machinery of a thrashing machine on Monday, and was so seriously injured that amputation of the limb became necessary.

ALABAMA ELECTION RETURNS.—The Montgomery Advertiser has been furnished by the secretary of the state with the official returns of the late election in Alabama. Mr. Breckinridge received 48,831 votes, Mr. Bell 27,866, Mr. Douglas 13,646, making Breckinridge's majority over both 7,319.

POPULATION OF KENTUCKY.—The population of Kentucky is 1,156,000, being an increase of 17 per cent. in the last ten years.

ARMY RANK UNDER GARIBALDI.—It was a strange assemblage, as various in language as in rank and costume—French, English, Germans, Swedes and Scotchmen—a cook, a general, a doctor, a runaway apprentice, and an Indian veteran. Grades and business are very indefinite in Garibaldi's army.

"What is your position here, sir, may I be permitted ask?" inquired a little man who was poking about in the crowd of my colonel. His face bore such a look of innocent inquiry that my colonel could not resent the impertinence.

"I give you my honor, I don't know," said he; "when there's fighting, I fight. When I receive orders, I execute them.—I'm on the staff, I take it, at least the general thinks so. I have some indistinct impression that my rank is colonel. I get my two francs a day, like everybody else, and it pays for my tobacco."

"What is your position, colonel, may I be allowed to inquire?" asked the little man, presently, sidling up to Colonel Dowling.

"Now, if you'll believe me, I haven't the remotest conception," replied that officer, who was hacking away at a lump of hard beef placed upon a harder loaf, by way of a platter, "somebody mentioned that I was inspector general of artillery; I haven't heaad of anybody above me in that department, and I haven't had time to look out for those below. Major G—— constructs the batteries and I find the guns."

"And the men?"

"I don't know precisely how I get the men. I always find a lot of chaps about me, and soon know whom to select. I lost my best man to-day, poor fellow, but here's a lad worth any two that are left." He pointed to an individual in a yellow jacket and overalls. He was a livery stable keeper in Naples. He had never seen a shot fired until the battle of the first of October, when, being accidentally present, he took such a fancy to the 'sport of princes' that he could not find it in his heart to quit the playground again. His great delight was a battery. He liked plenty of noise, and attached himself to Colonel Dowling's big thirty-twos, proving himself not only perfectly cool and self-possessed, but a very skillful and efficient gunner. There was a sad paucity of artillery men, and such a hand was highly appreciated. A day or two before, the officer commanding a battery on the left which had lost several men, had applied to Dowling for assistance, adding, "And for God's sake send me one Englishman!"—All the Year Round.

GARIBALDI ON THE HUDSON.—Lewis Gaylord Clark says, in the last number of the Knickerbocker:

When Garibaldi was in this country he used frequently, in summer, to come up to Hastings on the Hudson, to see his friend Avezzana, and was usually there over Sunday; occasionally he would "drop up" to "Dobb, his Ferry," a lovely mile's walk; and there it was, on the Monday morning steamer to town, that we often saw him; also, at the cottage of our dear departed friend, S. D. Dakin, with whom he sometimes dined and passed an evening. Our friend's love of Italian literature, which he read with ease and treasured with delight, and Garibaldi's history, modesty and pre-eminently accessible intelligence, made him a most cherished visitor.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS AND BUILDERS.

Important Discoveries and New Arrangements!

THE subscriber has discovered upon his premises a splendid

which promises to surpass anything yet found in the state, as well as add to the many already developed resources of our city,

A Beautiful, Cheap and Durable Building Material,

He has made arrangements to work this, together with the justly celebrated

Monterey Lime Stone Quarry,

on a scale equal to the demands of our enterprising citizens, and in order to accommodate his numerous customers, he has made arrangements to keep constantly on hand a large supply of

ATHENS MARBLE

(or Chicago stone.) He is now fitting up extensive saw and scouring mills, and other machinery necessary for working the same, at a great reduction from former prices.

He also wishes to call attention to the fact that sound cutting or dimension stone can only be found at great distances from the surface, and that the Monterey Quarry is the only one in this county that has been worked far enough to reach those formations that are imperishable when exposed to the action of air and frost.

He is also supplying his Quarry with Derricks to facilitate the handling and loading large stone, and is fitting up expensive wagons, carts and trucks, rigged with the most approved appliances for moving and delivering dimension stone of any size, from two to thirty feet square, and from six to twenty inches thick, or any required length up to one hundred feet, to any part of the city or on board of the cars.

He is prepared to furnish

Cut Stone

of every description,

PLAIN, MOULDED, CARVED OR POLISHED FLAGGIN

of any required dimension.

Curbing, Paving, Rubble and Coursing

stone of the best quality in the state, all of which will be delivered at his Quarries or any part of the city to suit purchasers.

In conclusion, he begs to assure the public that from the superior quality of his materials, and facilities for furnishing, he can and will make it to their interests to patronize the Monterey Quarries.

BENTON'S CIGARS!

THE PLACE TO FIND THEM!

THE undersigned having dissolved the co-partnership existing between himself and W. P. Woodward, has the pleasure of announcing to the citizens of Janesville, the people of Rock county, and the world at large, that he has opened a

for the manufacture and sale of

CIGARS, CHEWING AND SMOKING TOBACCO, SNUFF,

and tobacco of all kinds, in the frame building on the East End of the Upper Bridge, on recently occupied by F. Lindhorst. In making this announcement he feels that it is unnecessary to indulge in any puffing and blowing, as is frequently done by others. He has only to say that puff themselves, and as he is now upon his 'own book,' he is determined that they shall be better and more acceptable to the public than ever. The people will now know where tobacco of all kinds and in all shapes, of the choicest variety, may be found. BENTON'S IS THE PLACE. Give him a call.

BENTON'S CIGARS!

The Fugitive Slave Law.

The New York Courier and Enquirer, speaking of the execution of the fugitive slave law in the free states, says:

"What the south should ask is that when its fugitive slaves are not returned it should receive an indemnity for them. In its present temper South Corolina would undoubtedly desire the literal fulfillment of the law, because it knows that the law is odious to the north. That the Palmetto state is not the representative of southern feeling is well known. Her ultra tendencies are too often manifested. The proposition for receiving indemnity for fugitive slaves was made by southern men some years since, and received the sanction of those who were considered the firmest friends of the south. Mr. Foot, of Miss., gave it his support; why then should not a similar proposition be equally acceptable to the south at the present time? Why should the south desire to insist upon the enforcement of a law which it knows was intended as a harsh one?"

The Courier endorses the proposition of the Albany Evening Journal that those counties in which fugitive slaves are rescued by violence from officials who have them in charge, shall be liable for the value of the slave thus rescued.

We very much question whether the people of the north will be willing to pay for runaway slaves, under any circumstances. We believe they will not be willing to acknowledge, voluntarily, in this way, that there is property in man. Slaves would have to be paid for, under this proposition, by a tax upon all the property of a county, which would add to our already interminable difficulties in relation to the legality of taxes. The principle of making the people of a whole district or county pay for the acts of one or two, or at most a very few men, is unequal and unjust, and more especially so when at the same time the rightfulness of chattelism in a human being is to be acknowledged.

To add such an obligation as this to the odious requirements of the present fugitive slave law could not be borne by men who have any regard for conscience, or the moral law, and we look upon any compromise which shall impose the necessity of paying the slave holder for his runaway slaves, as utterly inadmissable.

At the same time, we know of very few, if indeed there are any, among us, who deny the constitutional obligation to deliver up the fugitive from service to his master, upon claim and proof being made on the spot that he is such a fugitive as was contemplated by the constitution. But we do deny that any citizen shall be compelled to assist in the capture of a slave; or to hold him after he has been arrested; or to be made liable to fines and imprisonment for mere acts of charity and hospitality without intent to assist the runaway to escape. If we are to have a new arrangement in relation to fugitive slaves, we shall continue to insist that there shall be some mode of determining the validity of the claim to the slave, at the time and on the spot where the claim is made. Kidnapping under the pretext of ownership, has become so common that there is no safety in permitting the fugitive to be taken away by any and every person who makes a "claim," and is willing to swear to it. Fraudulent papers of this kind have multiplied to such a degree, and are so easily obtained, that some legal and sure means should be instituted to determine their validity in the state where the fugitive is arrested. There are wretches who make kidnapping a business, and so great is this evil, and so dangerous is it to an unfortunate class in our midst, that we cannot turn a deaf ear to their appeals for protection.

In a word, we do not object to fulfilling the demands of the constitution on this subject, if a proper law shall be enacted, guarding and protecting the rights of all who may come under its operation—neither stopping short nor going beyond the requirements of that instrument. To ask us to do more than this will be entirely useless.

THE WAR IN KANSAS.—Read the dispatches this morning! What news! Let military expedition return in all haste, taking good care, however, not to arrive here earlier than midnight. It was an outrage on the gallant soldiery of St. Louis to take them out on such a bogus business.—Missouri Democrat.

It does look a little like the "Virginia scare," both in its beginning and in its ending. The lesson taught is, never believe "border ruffian" rumors, and don't order out the troops until it is certain there is an enemy in the field. By following this rule much expense will be saved, and some chagrin.

CONGRESS.—Congress meets on Monday next. The message will probably be delivered Tuesday, and will most likely be here by Wednesday, or Thursday. We see it intimated that as Mr. Buchanan "knows no west" he will not send his message in advance of its delivery to this region.

☞ Georgia will probably have no vote in the electoral college. Breckinridge has carried the state by a plurality of about 2,500, while her constitution requires a majority of all the votes to secure a choice. In the event of failure to elect before the people, electors are to be chosen by the legislature. That body, however, has adjourned without action and will not be reconvened to act in the matter.

WRECK OF THE DACOTAH.—From the Buffalo Commercial we gather the following particulars of the wreck of the propellor Dacotah:

This ill-fated vessel is supposed to have struck on Saturday night at 9 o'clock. She was first discovered on Monday morning, by Mr. Bennett, opposite his house, one mile above Sturgeon Bay. At 9 o'clock the night before, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and their son heard amidst the howling of the tempest, the voice of some one hallooing apparently in distress. They went out and searched in vain for some one, for an hour. The next morning Mrs. Bennett was so convinced that she heard some one hallooing in distress from the beach, that she sent her son to look, and he found the wreck.—The vessel apparently broke up outside, by striking a reef, as one half of the entire bottom was landed high and dry on the beach—all perfect. The debris of the wreck and cargo are strewn for miles along the beach. The bones of three men have been found, and are in charge of the coroner, A. Dewey, of Evans Centre. Two of them have been identified as Bartholomew Macnamra, deck hand, and Edward Kennedy, watchman.—The other man could not be identified. The life-boat is on the beach, nearly perfect, and it may be that some one reached the shore alive in her, and perished before reaching the dwelling. An examination is taking place to discover if this is so. There is two feet of snow on the level at Evans' Centre. Some portions of the wreck are hanging off in the lake, apparently hung by the machinery and anchors. Captain Thomas, of the board of underwriters, and captains Collins and Gaylord, were left in charge of the wreck and cargo by Capt. Dorr, and did all they could, in co-operation with the coroner, to recover the bodies and forward them to their friends. It was a sad sight to see those bodies saved—froze stark and stiff, with the red color of life still in their cheeks! Poor sailors! their last work is done. God help the poor, bereaved ones left behind.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says of the several reputed West Point cadets, who have announced their determination to fight for S. C., in the event of her seceding from the Union, that one of them was dismissed last June, in consequence of his deficiency in French and the large number of demerit marks placed opposite his name; a second and a third were dismissed at the same time, the first for bad conduct, the second for want of scholarship; the fourth still remains in the institution, but stands fifty-third in a class of fifty-seven, and is already charged with one hundred and thirty-eight demerits. The names of the four others who signed the manifesto are not on the catalogue at all.

BARNUM A PRACTICAL JOKER.—During a republican glorification at Bridgeport, Conn., P. T. Barnum played a rich joke on his son-in-law, D. W. Thompson, a prominent democrat. Barnum invited Thompson and his family to his house, and while they were awaiting the arrival of the procession, Barnum and his assistants ran and illuminated Thomson's house. The republicans of course were astonished to see the illumination, and made many complimentary remarks in favor of Mr. Thompson's course. The latter, when he learned the trick, was disposed to raise a storm, but soon joined in the genuine laugh over the clever trick.

THE SOUTHERN ULTIMATUM.—The Richmond Enquirer lays down the terms upon which the south will consent to remain in the Union, as fellows:

The northern states which have declared war against us—they alone are competent to shield us from revolution. Let each northern state, through her legislature, or in convention assembled, promptly repeal all nullifying laws passed for the injury of the constitutional rights of the south; pass laws to secure the easy and prompt execution of the fugitive slave law; pass other laws imposing adequate penalties on all malefactors who shall hereafter assist or enourage the escape of fugitive slaves; pass other laws declaring and protecting the right of slaveholders to travel and sojourn in northern states, accompanied by their slaves, instruct their senators and representatives, in congress to repeal the law prohibiting the sale of slaves in the district of Columbia, and to pass laws sufficient for the protection of slave property in all the territories of the Union; and let these senators and representatives promptly obey such instructions.

This will only secure the constitutional rights of the southern states from aggression, actual or menaced. This will do more than merely fulfil the constitutional obligations of the northern states. This, and nothing short of this, will suffice to prevent revolution.

THE IDEA OF THE SPINNING JENNY.—Suddenly he (James Hargreaves,) dropped upon his knees, and rolled on the stone floor at full length. He lay with his face toward the floor, and made lines and circles with the end of a burned stick. He rose and went to the fire to burn his stick. He took hold of his bristly hair with one hand, and rubbed his forehead and nose with the other and the blackened stick. Then he sat upon a chair, and placed his head between his hands, his elbows on his knees, and gazed intently on the floor. Then he sprang to his feat, and replied to some feeble questions of his wife, (who had not risen since the day she gave birth to a little stranger,) by a loud assurance that he had it; and, taking her in his sturdy arms, in the blankets, the baby in her arms, he lifted her out, and held her over the black drawing on the floor. These he explained, and she joined a small, hopeful, happy laugh with his high toned assurance that she should never toil at the spinningwheel; that he would never again "play," and have his loom standing for want of weft. She asked some questions, which he answered, after seating her in the arm chair, by laying her spinning-wheel on its back, the horizontal spindle standing vertically, while he made the wheel revolve, and drew a roving of cotton from the spindle into an attenuated thread. "Our fortune is made when that is made," he said, speaking of his drawings on the floor. "What will you call it?" asked his wife. "Call it? What an we call it after thyself, Jenny! They called thee 'spinning Jenny' afore I had thee, because thou beat every lass in Stonehill Moor at the wheel. What if we call it 'Spinning Jenny?'"—Men Who Have Risen.

THE CHIVALRY DOWN ON BUNKER HILL.—The N. Y. Times says: Having had the pleasure of meeting in Boston with Mr. Farnham, and having learned his political proclivities, we penned a few days since the following item: "Ralph Farnham, the sole survivor of the battle of Bunker Hill, and the recipient of much kindness from our late royal guest, has voted at every Presidential election, and has made up his mind to vote for Lincoln on Tuesday next."

Whereupon the Charleston Mercury waxeth wroth, and patriotically expresseth itself thus: "Ralph Farnham is perhaps as great a humbug as was the battle of Bunker Hill."

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning as one of the pressmen was engaged in adjusting the inking apparatus of our small power press, the ends of his neck tie were caught in the cog-wheels and he was brought up "choking" in about two seconds. Fortunately the tie gave way just in time to save him from being choked to death.—Madison Argus.

A New York fashion writer says of dress goods: Flash has had its day. The rainbow plaids, with squares as big as small windows, are consigned to oblivion, and ladies are no longer to be seen walking the streets inclosed in chequer work. The railroad stripes are also numbered with the things that were.

The Monroe papers announce the arrival in that town of "Cataract engine and hose cart No. 1," said to be a beautiful machine. At a late meeting of the company, Norman Churchill was elected foreman.—The company is in a good state of preservation and ready for action.

A WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH WHILE AT PRAYER.—The Lafayette (Ind.) Courier says:

Mrs. Catherine Gray, a widow lady, eighty years of age, residing in the south part of town, was burned to death last week under circumstances of a peculiarly distressing character. On Thursday evening she invited a little boy in the neighborhood to keep her company for the night, and after tucking him warmly under the covers, kneeled down at the bedside to say her prayers. While in this position her dress took fire from the candle, and in an instant she was enveloped in flames. The fire communicated to the curtains of the bed, and intent upon the preservation of the child and forgetful of herself, she fought the flames until her hands were burned to a blister, and succeeded in dragging the little fellow into the middle of the room. The affrighted boy broke from her embrace and ran to the nearest neighbors. The alarm was promptly given, but before aid could be procured the poor woman had been burned past recovery.

The neighbors found her standing in the middle of the floor, with the lower part of her apparel burned entirely off, and her limbs and abdomen horribly disfigured.—The unfortunate woman lingered in great agony until Saturday, when she expired.

THANKSGIVING IN NEW YORK—MAYOR WOOD THINKS THERE IS NOTHING TO BE GRATEFUL FOR.—The proclamation of Mayor Wood announcing that the 29th of November is to be observed in the city as a day of thanksgiving, is the most disgraceful mixture of blasphemy, political spleen and personal impudence, with which it has been our fortune to meet for a long time. Its malignity would be frightful were it not simply ludicrous. After designating the day to be observed, he says:

While in my judgment the country, either in its political, commercial or financial aspects, presents no features for which we should be thankful, we are yet called upon by every consideration of self-preservation to offer up to the Father of all Mercies devout and fervent prayer, for His interposition and protection from the impending evils which threaten our institutions and the national interests of the people.

Therefore, acknowledging our dependence upon Almighty God, and deeply sensible of our own unworthiness, let the day set apart as Thanksgiving be observed by the people of this city as one of humiliation and supplication—not omitting in our prayers the expression of the hope that those who have, in violation of the federal compact, unpatriotically and unwisely inflicted these injuries upon us, may be the only sufferers by their own wickedness and folly.

A SAMPLE OF "CHIVALRY."—The Honorable (?) R. B. Rheit, of South Carolina, in a speech at Charleston, the other day, made use of the following polite and truthful language:

"They (the republicans) have elected a southern renegade—spewed out of the bosom of Kentucky into Illinois—and a northern white-washed octoroon mulatto, to be president and vice-president of the United States."

Now, does Mr. Rhett, or any of his coadjutors, really suppose that the people of the north can be influenced by such crazy and disgraceful talk? Or is it merely his purpose by retailing their miserable slang, to influence and exasperate the south beyond all reason.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE AMALGAMATION OF LANGUAGES.—There is a growing tendency in this age to appropriate the most expressive words of other languages, and after a while to incorporate them into their own; thus the word Cephalic, which is from the Greek, signifying "for the head," is now becoming popularized in connection with Mr. Spalding's great Headache remedy, but it will soon be used in a more general way, and the word Cephalic will become as common as electrotype and many others whose distinction as foreign words has been worn away by common usage until they seem "native and to the manor born."

'ardly Realized.

Hi 'ad 'n 'orrible 'eadache this afternoon, hand I stepped into the hapothecaries hand says hi to the man, "Can you hease me of an 'eadache?" "Does it hache 'ard," says 'e. "Hexceedingly," says hi, hand upon that 'e gave me a Cephalic Pill, hand 'pon me 'onor It cured me so quick that I 'ardly realized I 'ad 'ad an 'eadache.

☞ HEADACHE is the favorite sign by which nature makes known any deviation whatever from the natural state of the brain, and viewed in this light it may be looked on as a safeguard intended to give notice of disease which might otherwise escape attention, till too late to be remedied; and its indications should never be neglected. Headaches may be classified under two names, viz: Symptomatic and Idiopathic. Symptomatic headache is exceedingly common and is the precursor of a great variety of diseases, among which are Apoplexy, Gout, Rheumatism and all febrile diseases. In its nervous form it is sympathetic of disease of the stomach constituting sick headache, of hepatic disease constituting bilious headache, of worms, constipation and other disorders of the bowels, as well as renal and uterine affections. Diseases of the heart are very frequently attended with headaches; Anemia and plethora are also affections which frequently occasion headache. Idiopathic headache is also very common, being usually distinguished by the name of nervous headache, sometimes coming on suddenly in a state of apparently sound health and prostrating at once the mental and physical energies, and in other instances it comes on slowly, heralded by depression of spirits or acerbity of temper.—In most instances the pain is in the front of the head, over one or both eyes, and sometimes provoking vomiting; under this class may also be named Neuralgia.

For the treatment of either class of headache the Cephalic Pills have been found a sure and safe remedy, relieving the most acute pains in a few minutes, and by its subtle power eradicating the diseases of which headache is the unerring index.

BRIDGET.—Missus wants you to send her a box of Cephalic Glue, no, a bottle of prepared Pills,—but I'm thinking that's not just it neither; but perhaps ye'll be afther knowing what it is. Ye see she's nigh dead and gone with the sick headache, and wants some more of that same as relaived her before.

Druggist.—You must mean Spalding's Cephalic Pills.

Bridget.—Och! sure now and you've sed it, here's the quarter and give me the pills and dont be all day about it aither.

Constipation or Costiveness.

No one of the "many ills flesh is heir to" is so prevalent, so little understood, and so much neglected as costiveness. Often originating in carelessness, or sedentary habits; it is regarded as a slight disorder of too little consequence to excite anxiety, while in reality it is the precursor and companion of many of the most fatal and dangerous diseases, and unless early eradicated it will bring the sufferer to an untimely grave. Among the lighter evils of which costiveness is the usual attendant are Headache, Colic, Rheumatism, Foul Breath, Piles and others of like nature, while a long train of frightful diseases such as Malignant Fevers, Abcesses, Dysentary, Diarrhœa, Dyspepsia, Apoplexy, Epilepsy, Paralysis, Hysteria, Hypochondriasis, Melancholy and Insanity, first indicate their presence in the system by this alarming symptom. Not unfrequently the diseases named originate in Constipation, but take on an independent existence unless the cause is eradicated in an early stage. From all these considerations it follows that the disorder should receive immediate attention whenever it occurs, and no person should neglect to get a box of Cephalic Pills on the first appearance of the complaint, as their timely use will expel the insiduous approaches of disease and destroy this dangerous foe to human life.

A Real Blessing.

Physician.—Well, Mrs. Jones, how is your headache?

Mrs. Jones.—Gone! Doctor, all gone! the pill you sent cured me in just twenty minutes, and I wish you would send more so that I can have them handy.

Physician.—You can get them at any Druggists. Call for Cephalic Pills, I find they never fail, and I recommend them in all cases of headache.

Mrs. Jones.—I shall send for a box directly, and shall tell all my suffering friends, for they are a real blessing.

TWENTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SAVED.—Mr. Spalding has sold two millions of bottles of his celebrated Prepared Glue, and it is estimated that each bottle saves at least ten dollars worth of broken furniture, thus making an aggregate of twenty millions of dollars reclaimed from total loss by this valuable invention. Having made his glue a household word, he now proposes to do the world still greater service by curing all the aching heads with his Cephalic Pills, and if they are as good as his glue, headache will soon vanish away like snow in July.

☞ OVER EXCITEMENT, and the mental care and anxiety incident to close attention to business or study, are among the numerous causes of nervous headache. The disordered state of mind and body incident to this distressing complaint is a fatal blow to all energy and ambition. Sufferers by this disorder can always obtain speedy relief from these distressing attacks, by using one of the Cephalic Pills whenever the symptoms appear. It quiets the overtasked brain, and soothes the strained and jarring nerves, and relaxes the tension of the stomach which always accompanies and aggravates the disordered condition of the brain.

FACT WORTH KNOWING.—Spalding's Cephalic Pills are a certain cure for Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Nervous Headache, Costiveness and General Debility.

GREAT DISCOVERY.—Among the most important of all the great medical discoveries of this age may be considered the system of vaccination for protection from Small Pox, the Cephalic Pill for relief of headache, and the use of Quinine for the prevention of fevers, either of which is a sure specific, whose benefits will be experienced by suffering humanity long after their discoverers are forgotten.

☞ Did you ever have the sick headache? Do you remember the throbbing temples, the fevered brow, the loathing and disgust at the sight of food. How totally unfit you were for pleasure, conversation or study.—One of the Cephalic Pills would have relieved you from all the suffering which you then experienced. For this and other purposes you should always have a box of them on hand to use as occasion requires.

Cephalic Pills

Sick Headache!

CURE
All kinds of Headache.

By the use of these pills the periodic attacks of Nervous or Sick Headache may be prevented; and if taken at the commencement of an attack immediate relief from pain and sickness will be obtained.

They seldom fail in removing Nausea and Headache to which females are so subject.

They act gently upon the bowels,—removing Costiveness.

For Literary Men, Students, delicate females, and all persons of sedentary habits, they are valuable as a Laxative, improving the appetite, giving tone and vigor to the digestive organs, and restoring the natural elasticity and strength of the whole system.

The CEPHALIC PILLS are the result of long investigation and carefully conducted experiments, having been in use many years, during which time they have prevented and relieved a vast amount of pain and suffering from headache, whether originating in the nervous system or from a deranged state of the stomach.

They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and may be taken at all times with perfect safety without making any change of diet, and the absence of any disagreeable taste renders it easy to administer them to children.

Dated Janesville, Oct. 18th, A D 1860.

S. L. JAMES, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Rock, State of Wisconsin.

THESE popular BITTERS possess all the nourishing and invigorating properties of PURE OLD BOURBON WHISKEY, and are considered the most efficacious TONIC and STIMULANT, as well as the most agreeable STOMACHIC ever offered to the public. As a Tonic for Old People, delicate Ladies, convalescent invalids, and all weakly people, they cannot be surpassed; In all cases of Weakness or Debility, they will give immediate relief, and impart a strong healthy tone to the system. A trial will establish their merits over all other Tonics now in use. For LUNG COMPLAINTS, BRONCHITIS, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DISEASES AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, they are an invaluable Remedy; and are a certain preventative of CHILLS and FEVERS.

Put up in Quart Bottles, in cases of one and two dozen, and for sale by Druggists and Grocers everywhere.

It will be well for every body to refrain from any violation of the statute.

Galena and Chicago Railroad.—A change in the time table of this road has been made, and will be found in its advertisement, the morning train leaving at 8:40.

Exchange was dull and lower, yesterday, in New York. Missouri 6's were 69 and Tennessee 6's, 76.

Good Clothing.—Undoubtedly one of the best places in this city for the purchase of a good garment is at the store of J. C. Echlin. He keeps always an excellent stock, and manufactures in a superior style, while his prices conform to the lowest rates. An excellent and substantial business attests the success of his efforts to establish a reliable trade—a trade founded upon the satisfaction of his customers. See his advertisement.

☞ The St. Louis Democrat has a leading editorial urging the appointment of Hon. Schuyler Colfax of Indiana as Postmaster General, on the ground that he is a man of great energy and industry, and combines with these qualifications a practical knowledge of the department, obtained through his services on the congressional postoffice committee.

The Austin, Texas, Gazette says that Breckinridge's majority in that state may exceed 40,000.

Serious Accident to a Member of the Assembly.—We learn from the Madison Journal that Dominick O'Malley, a member elect from the fifth assembly district of Dane county, had his left arm caught in the machinery of a thrashing machine on Monday, and was so seriously injured that amputation of the limb became necessary.

Alabama Election Returns.—The Montgomery Advertiser has been furnished by the secretary of the state with the official returns of the late election in Alabama. Mr. Breckinridge received 48,831 votes, Mr. Bell 27,866, Mr. Douglas 13,646, making Breckinridge's majority over both 7,319.

Population of Kentucky.—The population of Kentucky is 1,156,000, being an increase of 17 per cent. in the last ten years.

Army Rank Under Garibaldi.—It was a strange assemblage, as various in language as in rank and costume—French, English, Germans, Swedes and Scotchmen—a cook, a general, a doctor, a runaway apprentice, and an Indian veteran. Grades and business are very indefinite in Garibaldi's army.

"What is your position here, sir, may I be permitted ask?" inquired a little man who was poking about in the crowd of my colonel. His face bore such a look of innocent inquiry that my colonel could not resent the impertinence.

"I give you my honor, I don't know," said he; "when there's fighting, I fight. When I receive orders, I execute them.—I'm on the staff, I take it, at least the general thinks so. I have some indistinct impression that my rank is colonel. I get my two francs a day, like everybody else, and it pays for my tobacco."

"What is your position, colonel, may I be allowed to inquire?" asked the little man, presently, sidling up to Colonel Dowling.

"Now, if you'll believe me, I haven't the remotest conception," replied that officer, who was hacking away at a lump of hard beef placed upon a harder loaf, by way of a platter, "somebody mentioned that I was inspector general of artillery; I haven't heaad of anybody above me in that department, and I haven't had time to look out for those below. Major G—— constructs the batteries and I find the guns."

"And the men?"

"I don't know precisely how I get the men. I always find a lot of chaps about me, and soon know whom to select. I lost my best man to-day, poor fellow, but here's a lad worth any two that are left." He pointed to an individual in a yellow jacket and overalls. He was a livery stable keeper in Naples. He had never seen a shot fired until the battle of the first of October, when, being accidentally present, he took such a fancy to the 'sport of princes' that he could not find it in his heart to quit the playgronnd again. His great delight was a battery. He liked plenty of noise, and attached himself to Colonel Dowling's big thirty-twos, proving himself not only perfectly cool and self-possessed, but a very skillful and efficient gunner. There was a sad paucity of artillery men, and such a hand was highly appreciated. A day or two before, the officer commanding a battery on the left which had lost several men, had applied to Dowling for assistance, adding, "And for God's sake send me one Englishman!"—[illegible] Year Round.

Garibaldi on the Hudson.—Lewis Gaylord Clark says, in the last number of the Knickerbocker:

When Garibaldi was in this country he used frequently, in summer, to come up to Hastings on the Hudson, to see his friend Avezzana, and was usually there over Sunday; occasionally he would "drop up" to "Dobb, his Ferry," a lovely mile's walk; and there it was, on the Monday morning steamer to town, that we often saw him; also, at the cottage of our dear departed friend, S. D. Dakin, with whom he sometimes dined and passed an evening. Our friend's love of Italian literature, which he read with ease and treasured with delight, and Garibaldi's history, modesty and preeminently accessible intelligence, made him a most cherished visitor.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS AND BUILDER.

Important Discoveries and New Arrangements!

THE subscriber has discovered upon his premises a splendid

QUARRY OF FREESTONE,

which promises to surpass anything yet found in the state, as well as add to the many already developed resources of our city;

A Beautiful, Cheap and Durable Building Material,

He has made arrangements to work this, together with the justly celebrated

Monterey Lime Stone Quarry,

on a scale equal to the demands of our enterprising citizens, and in order to accommodate his numerous customers, he has made arrangements to keep constantly on hand a large supply of

ATHENS MARBLE

(or Chicago stone.) He is now fitting up extensive saw and scouring mills, and other machinery necessary for working the same, at a great reduction from former prices.

He also wishes to call attention to the fact that sound cutting or dimension stone can only be found at great distances from the surface, and that the Monterey Quarry is the only one in this county that has been worked far enough to reach those formations that are imperishable when exposed to the action of air and frost.

He is also supplying his Quarry with Derricks to facilitate the handling and loading large stone, and is fitting up expensive wagons, carts and trucks, rigged with the most approved appliances for moving and delivering dimension stone of any size, from two to thirty feet square, and from six to twenty inches thick, or any required length up to one hundred feet, to any part of the city or on board of the cars.

He is prepared to furnish

Cut Stone

of every description,

PLAIN, MOULDED, CARVED OR POLISHED FLAGGIN

of any required dimension.

Curbing, Paving, Rubble and Coursing

stone of the best quality in the state, all of which will be delivered at his Quarries or any part of the city to suit purchasers.

In conclusion, he begs to assure the public that from the superior quality of his materials, and facilities for furnishing, he can and will make it to their interests to patronize the Monterey Quarries.

☞ All Orders from the city or country will be promptly attended to.

BENTON'S CIGARS!

for the manufacture and sale of

CIGARS, CHEWING AND SMOKING TOBACCO, SNUFF,

and tobacco of all kinds, in the frame building on the East End of the Upper Bridge, on recently occupied by F. Lindhorst. In making this announcement he feels that it is unnecessary to indulge in any puffing and blowing, as is frequently done by others. He has only to say that puff themselves, and as he is now upon his 'own hook,' he is determined that they shall be better and more acceptable to the public than ever. The people will now know where tobacco of all kinds and in all shapes, of the choicest variety, may be found. BENTON'S IS THE PLACE. Give him a call.

BENTON'S CIGARS!

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE AMALGAMATION OF LANGUAGES.—There is a growing tendency in this age to appropriate the most expressive words of other languages, and after a while to incorporate them into their own; thus the word Cephalic, which is from the Greek, signifying "for the head," is now becoming popularized in connection with Mr. Spalding's great Headache remedy, but it will soon be used in a more general way, and the word Cephalic will become as common as electrotype and many others whose distinction as foreign words has been worn away by common usage until they seem "native and to the manor born."

'ardly Realized.

Hi 'ad 'n 'orrible 'eadache this afternoon, hand I stepped into the hapothecaries hand says hi to the man, "Can you hease me of an 'eadache?" "Does it hache 'ard," says 'e. "Hexceedingly," says hi, hand upon that 'e gave me a Cephalic Pill, hand 'pon me 'onor it cured me so quick that I 'ardly realized I 'ad 'ad an 'eadache.

HEADACHE is the favorite sign by which nature makes known any deviation whatever from the natural state of the brain, and viewed in this light it may be looked on as a safeguard intended to give notice of disease which might otherwise escape attention, till too late to be remedied; and its indications should never be neglected. Headaches may be classified under two names, viz: Symptomatic and Idiopathic. Symptomatic headache is exceedingly common and is the precursor of a great variety of diseases, among which are Apoplexy, Gout, Rheumatism and all febrile diseases. In its nervous form it is sympathetic of disease of the stomach constituting sick headache, of hepatic disease constituting bilious headache, of worms, constipation and other disorders of the bowels, as well as renal and uterine affections. Diseases of the heart are very frequently attended with headaches; Anemia and plethora are also affections which frequently occasion headache. Idiopathic headache is also very common, being usually distinguished by the name of nervous headache, sometimes coming on suddenly in a state of apparently sound health and prostrating at once the mental and physical energies, and in other instances it comes on slowly, heralded by depression of spirits or acerbity of temper.—In most instances the pain is in the front of the head, over one or both eyes, and sometimes provoking vomiting; under this class may also be named Neuralgia.

For the treatment of either class of headache the Cephalic Pills have been found a sure and safe remedy, relieving the most acute pains in a few minutes, and by its subtle power eradicating the diseases of which headache is the unerring index.

BRIDGET.—Missus wants you to send her a box of Cephalic Glue, no, a bottle of prepared Pills,—but I'm thinking that's not just it neither; but perhaps ye'll be afther knowing what is is. Ye see she's nigh dead and gone with the sick headache, and wants some more of that same as relaived her before.

Druggist.—You must mean Spalding's Cephalic Pills.

Bridget.—Och! sure now and you've sed it, here's the quarter and give me the pills and dont be all day about it aither.

Constipation or Costiveness.

No one of the "many ills flesh is heir to" is so prevalent, so little understood, and so much neglected as costiveness. Often originating in carelessness, or sedentary habits; it is regarded as a slight disorder of too little consequence to excite anxiety, while in reality it is the precursor and companion of many of the most fatal and dangerous diseases, and unless early eradicated it will bring the sufferer to an untimely grave. Among the lighter evils of which costiveness is the usual attendant are Headache, Colic, Rheumatism, Foul Breath, Piles and others of like nature, while a long train of frightful diseases such as Malignant Fevers, Abcesses, Dysentary, Diarrhœa, Dyspepsia, Apoplexy, Epilepsy, Paralysis, Hysteria, Hypochondriasis, Melancholy and Insanity, first indicate their presence in the system by this alarming symptom. Not unfrequently the diseases named originate in Constipation, but take on an independent existence unless the cause is eradicated in an early stage. From all these considerations it follows that the disorder should receive immediate attention whenever it occurs, and no person should neglect to get a box of Cephalic Pills on the first appearance of the complaint, as their timely use will expel the insidious approaches of disease and destroy this dangerous foe to human life.

A Real Blessing.

Physician.—Well, Mrs. Jones, how is your headache?

Mrs. Jones.—Gone! Doctor, all gone! the pill you sent cured me in just twenty minutes, and I wish you would send more so that I can have them handy.

Physician.—You can get them at any Druggists.—Call for Cephalic Pills, I find they never fail, and I recommend them in all cases of headache.

Mrs. Jones.—I shall send for a box directly, and shall tell all my suffering friends, for they are a real blessing.

TWENTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SAVED.—Mr. Spalding has sold two millions of bottles of his celebrated Prepared Glue, and it is estimated that each bottle saves at least ten dollars worth of broken furniture, thus making an aggregate of twenty millions of dollars reclaimed from total loss by this valuable invention. Having made his glue a household word, he now proposes to do the world still greater service by curing all the aching heads with his Cephalic Pills, and if they are as good as his glue, headache will soon vanish away like snow in July.

OVER EXCITEMENT, and the mental care and anxiety incident to close attention to business or study, are among the numerous causes of nervous headache. The disordered state of mind and body incident to this distressing complaint is a fatal blow to all energy and ambition. Sufferers by this disorder can always obtain speedy relief from these distressing attacks, by using one of the Cephalic Pills whenever the symptoms appear. It quiets the overtasked brain, and soothes the strained and jarring nerves, and relaxes the tension of the stomach which always accompanies and aggravates the disordered condition of the brain.

FACT WORTH KNOWING.—Spalding's Cephalic Pills are a certain cure for Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Nervous Headache, Costiveness and General Debility.

GREAT DISCOVERY.—Among the most important of all the great medical discoveries of this age may be considered the system of vaccination for protection from Small Pox, the Cephalic Pill for relief of headache, and the use of Quinine for the prevention of fevers, either of which is a sure specific, whose benefits will be experienced by suffering humanity long after their discoverers are forgotten.

Did you ever have the sick headache? Do you remember the throbbing temples, the fevered brow, the loathing and disgust at the sight of food. How totally unfit you were for pleasure, conversation or study.—One of the Cephalic Pills would have relieved you from all the suffering which you then experienced. For this and other purposes you should always have a box of them on hand to use as occasion requires.

Cephalic Pills
CURE Sick Headache!
CURE Nervous Headache
CURE All kinds of Headache.

By the use of these pills the periodic attacks of Nervous or Sick Headache may be prevented; and if taken at the commencement of an attack immediate relief from pain and sickness will be obtained.

They seldom fail in removing Nausea and Headache to which females are so subject.

They act gently upon the bowels,—removing Costiveness.

For Literary Men, Students, delicate females, and all persons of sedentary habits, they are valuable as a Laxative, improving the appetite, giving tone and vigor to the digestive organs, and restoring the natural elasticity and strength of the whole system.

The CEPHALIC PILLS are the result of long investigation and carefully conducted experiments, having been in use many years, during which time they have prevented and relieved a vast amount of pain and suffering from headache, whether originating in the nervous system or from a deranged state of the stomach.

They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and may be taken at all times with perfect safety without making any change of diet, and the absence of any disagreeable taste renders it easy to administer them to children.

of Supervisors of the County of Rock,

THESE popular BITTERS possess all the nourishing and invigorating properties of PURE OLD BOURBON WHISKEY, and are considered the most efficacious TONIC and STIMULANT, as well as the most agreeable STOMACHIC ever offered to the public. As a Tonic for Old People, delicate Ladies, convalescent invalids, and all weakly people, they cannot be surpassed; in all cases of Weakness or Debility, they will give immediate relief, and impart a strong healthy tone to the system. A trial will establish their merits over all other Tonics now in use. For LUNG COMPLAINTS, BRONCHITIS, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DISEASES AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, they are an invaluable Remedy; and are a certain preventative of CHILLS AND FEVERS.

Put up in Quart Bottles, in cases of one and two dozen, and for sale by Druggists and Grocers everywhere.
W. F. & A. W. GREELEY, Proprietors, No. 26 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.
